ANTHONY TROLLOPE writes of the HAWKESBURY RIVER:—

"There is a river, or rather a portion of a river, known to very few tourists, which I think, beats the Rhine — this is the Upper Mississippi. It is not my business here to describe the Mississippi; but I mention it with the object of saying that, in my opinion, the Hawkesbury beats the Mississippi. I should not make the contrast unless there were many features in the two which are similar. The Hawkesbury headlands are higher, and the bluffs are bolder, and the turns and manœuvres of the course which the waters have made for themselves are grander and to me more enchanting than those of either the European or American river."

Reduced fares—Ladies, 10s.

This is the best time to see the river.

Parliamentary Elections.

TO THE ELECTORS OF SOUTH SYDNEY.
Gentlemen,—I have the honour of placing before you a brief statement of my political opinions.
I am firmly in favour of maintaining intact the present Act providing for Public Education.
I am not in favour of allowing the Free Selectors, be they rich or poor, to repudiate their obligations to the State, and by so doing strike a heavy blow at our future credit and prosperity, and at the same time saddle the people of the cities and towns with a large additional taxation to make good the default of their country neighbours.
I am in favour of railway extension generally, wherever it can be shown upon reliable information that the extension asked for would, after paying working expenses, yield also a fair interest on the outlay. The construction of common roads and bridges throughout the country should be left, as in the city and its suburbs, to the local energy and resources of the people who require them, assisted by a proportionate grant in aid from the Government.
I am in favour of free trade as a general principle, yet I think that the Government in accepting tenders for the supply of railway and other material and plant should be encouraged to lean towards the local manufacturing industries now struggling to maintain a footing amongst us.
I am not in favour of continuing immigration largely at the expense of the State, for I consider the time has arrived when, for various important reasons, the proportion paid by the State should be sensibly reduced, or altogether discontinued.
I am altogether opposed to the introduction of large numbers of Chinese or other Asiatic races into this country, for it is neither just nor wise to subject our own race to a competition for existence upon such unequal terms; the Asiatic, untrammelled as he usually is by the obligations of bread-winner for wife or family, and with the constitution and habits of his race, being able to live and thrive on as many pence per day as it costs the Briton shillings.
I look upon the present mode of granting licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors as altogether bad and indefensible, and shall esteem it a high honour to have my name associated with any practical measure calculated to diminish the evils flowing from the existing system, and which would at the same time protect the legitimate and straightforward trader.
The supply of water to the city and its rapidly increasing suburbs is a matter of urgent and weighty importance. I cannot understand why the Government seem determined to construct the main storage reservoir at Prospect instead of at or near Campbelltown, for in order to get to Prospect the level of supply must needs be reduced about 200 feet, while at the same time the neighbourhood of Campbelltown offers equal, if not superior, facilities to those afforded by the site selected at Prospect for the construction of the main reservoir, and, moreover, the supply line from Campbelltown to Sydney would practically be a direct line, and seventeen miles shorter than that via Prospect.
Surely, if the Government carry out their determination, it will be allowing the water to run down the hill with a vengeance—simply, I presume, for the sake of the pleasure of pumping it up again. Should you honour me with your confidence this is a matter I shall look closely into.
I am in favour of a liberal reservation and dedication of land for the recreation and enjoyment of the people generally throughout the country.
I am, Gentlemen, faithfully yours,
W. T. POOLE.
Redfern, October 1, 1880.

Hill End, October 18.

TO THE ELECTORS OF HARTLEY.
As you have returned me against no mean opponents in several general elections, I beg to state that it is my intention again to offer myself for election. Since I have been your representative I have recorded no vote that gives me regret; nor have I taken part in any debate that I should wish to recall. During the Parliament whose dissolution is drawing near, I introduced several questions; amongst them the opening of the Public Library and Museum on Sundays, the initiation of Gaol Lectures, and for the introduction of a bill for the limitation of usury. I am prepared to defend the opinions I hold in regard to these matters, let the result be what it may. Those who have notified through the Press their intention of opposing me on these grounds can now have the opportunity of doing so. The present Education Act received my warmest support and advocacy, and I shall at all times defend it. I am of opinion that the people cannot be too thankful to the agitators of a free, secular, and compulsory education—the League—for some of the best principles in the Act. The present Government, in my opinion, deserves, in some respects, well of the country; and the people no doubt rejoice over the fruits of a coalition Government, though the measures passed were virtually created during previous Parliaments; but now the oil of lucre is fairly divided the State coach runs smoothly. The proposals of the Government in regard to export duties met with all the opposition I could give them, the imposition of a duty on wool being most unjust, but not more so than the attempted royalty on coal, which, if carried, would have been a tax on all manufactures. I am in favour of still greater extension of railways, and regret that the present and past Administrations have lacked the energy and courage to construct a line to Circular Quay. I still firmly believe that railways should be formed from the sale of certain lands, as was explained in a resolution tabled by me on the 12th of November, 1878, viz.,—"That this House is of opinion that, in future, Crown lands adjoining to, and two miles in width on each side of, any proposed extensions of railways in this colony shall only be sold by auction, and that portions of such land as may be considered suitable for the purpose shall be reserved as the sites for townships or villages and for other public purposes, and that the proceeds of the sale of such land shall be set apart as a fund to be used in defraying the cost of such railways," &c., &c. The principle of this resolution was generally agreed to, but withdrawn on the promise of the Government to bring in a bill to deal with it. I believe in a constant flow of immigration to our shores, of a well selected class, notwithstanding the cant always raised against it by the so-called friends of the working classes. I am also of opinion that those who would deprive the country of some £450,000 per annum are worth watching. No principle of repudiation for remitting interest on the purchase-money of selections should be entertained for one moment. I favour an increased rental on runs, and for giving a more secure tenure. I shall support any measure for the prevention of Sunday selling in public-houses, and for the establishment of a Board to issue licenses. I shall not bind myself to support any particular party. Upon all matters of importance I shall address you in person. Trusting a renewal of your past confidence,
I am, yours, &c.,
J. HURLEY.
Petersham, 8th October, 1880.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST SYDNEY.
Gentlemen,—Though the practice, which has been very generally adopted, of announcing a candidature for the new Parliament during the existence of the old one is one which I do not altogether approve, I am induced, in deference to the wish of many friends, to announce to you my intention of soliciting your suffrages at the ensuing election.
I shall take an early opportunity of acquainting you with my opinions, which I venture to think are such as will ensure for me a very general support.
I am, Gentlemen,
yours faithfully,
HENRY C. DANGAR.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD.
A WONDERFUL TESTIMONIAL.
"Fleming's Hotel, Halfmoon-street, W.
"Gentlemen,—It is now exactly eight months since I had the good fortune to try one of your STOMACH and LIVER PADS. At that time—and, indeed, for many years at close intervals—I had been a sufferer from indigestion, until at last I was constantly claiming the assistance of the medical man or the chemist's shop, and was told it would end in congestion of the liver in later life. But from May 1 last, when I first applied one of your Pads, I have not taken so much as a seidlitz powder, and have enjoyed perfect health. I look upon its effect as so wonderful in my case, that if your charge was £50 instead of 15s, I should, to save my life, feel bound to have one by me. Its effect has been equally marvellous in the case of my porter, a young, strong man, who gave up his situation in despair last June from stomach and liver being wrong, told by his medical man that he was used up. On leaving me for the country he took with him one of your Pads, and in three days wrote to say that he was all right. He is still with me, and looks on the pad as not only having saved his situation, but, he believes, his life. Its effect has been equally wonderful in the case of my niece, a young married woman, said by her medical man (and believed by her) to be in a very bad way, near congestion of the liver. Since using the Pad she enjoys perfect health—weakness, sickness, and fainting fits all gone. Indeed, after my experience, it seems to me little short of wholesale murder that the Pad is not in general use in all our large hospitals.—With grateful thanks, I remain, Gentlemen, your obedient servant, ROBERT FLEMING."

SYDNEY WOOL SALES.

MORT and CO.'S WOOL WAREHOUSES, Sydney.

To our Constituents, and Woolgrowers generally.

We venture to hope that we now address a wider constituency than in any previous year. An increased direction of Wool to THIS PORT has already been very fully evidenced, and the continued extension of the RAILWAYS must yearly bring accession. In this EXPANSION it has been very gratifying to us to find that while retaining the friends we have been privileged to serve for many years, we have been honoured also with the confidence of many others, who could only have come to us on their report.

We desire to respond to this trustful preference, and are paying attention to a provision of the appliances necessary to meet the enlarging and yearly condensing WOOL SEASON. To this end, we are adding to the receiving and delivering facilities of our Warehouses at the CIRCULAR QUAY, and erecting a very capacious RECEIVING STORE, in IMMEDIATE PROXIMITY to the DARLING HARBOUR RAILWAY STATION, to which all WOOL conveyed on the Southern and Western Lines is now brought.

We have for many years dealt with at least a fifth of the wool exported from Sydney, and the arrangements alluded to will give room for the addition which we trust we may, without presumption, look for; feeling assured it will be acceded that we have ever conscientiously devoted our experience, with very active effort, to secure advantage to our constituents.

We shall continue to adhere to the rule, which has hitherto guided us, of acting as SELLING BROKERS only.

All PRODUCE is covered by Insurance against loss by fire immediately it reaches our Warehouses; and Insurance is also promptly effected on Wool in transit from Station, on request to do so from owners.

MORT and CO., Wool and Produce Brokers, Circular Quay, Sydney.

SINCE the sale of the WOODVILLE ESTATE has been announced, Messrs. HUDSON, BROTHERS, the well-known and enterprising contractors, have purchased 100 acres at the Junction, now Granville, whereon to erect extensive workshops. This will give an impetus to GRANVILLE, and will largely improve the value of land, as many hundreds of hands are sure to be employed there before long. The owner of the WOODVILLE ESTATE (the best land at the JUNCTION) has decided to give buyers the benefit at the sale on SATURDAY NEXT.

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

The bench was occupied yesterday, on the Criminal side by Messrs. Renwick, Booth, and Henderson; and on the Summons side by Messrs. Guy and M'Beath.

Margaret Johnston, fined 20s. for having been drunk in a public place, was called upon to account for three copies of the Sydney Morning Herald and one of the Evening News, found in her possession when searched at the lock-up. She said that the papers were given to her by Arthur Miley, of Regent-street, news agent, who, on being called into the witness-box, denied her statement. To be imprisoned seven days.

Alexander Watts was found guilty of having wilfully exposed himself in Hyde Park on Tuesday afternoon, and was sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

Sarah M'Bride and Alexander Thompson were found offending against decency in a public place, and were sentenced, the woman to be imprisoned six months, and Thompson to pay a penalty of 20s., or to be imprisoned seven days.

Catherine Moore, charged with being a common prostitute, found at 10 o'clock p.m. offending against decency in Hyde Park, was found guilty, and was sentenced to be imprisoned three months.

James Skelton was found guilty of being an idle and disorderly person, having no lawful means of support, and was sentenced to be imprisoned seven days. Mr. Carroll, for prisoner, gave notice of appeal against the conviction.

On the Summons side, Thomas James appeared to answer an information by Christopher Dalwood, which alleged that on or about the 10th April last three gold coins attached to greenstones, his (complainant's) property, were unlawfully pawned with defendant, and were now in his possession, and that he refused and neglected to give them up. Complainant deposed that some time ago he gave the articles named in the information to a man named Burges to be repaired, and subsequently discovered that they had been pawned to defendant; went with Burgess to defendant's place of business, and Burgess told him that the coins and stones were his (complainant's) property, and asked him to give them up; in reply to a question by complainant, he said that 15s. was due upon them; and in reply to another question, he said that when he received the things in pawn he believed Burgess to be an honest man; and, after some other conversation, ordered witness out of his shop; went to defendant on Tuesday, last week, and demanded his property; he had no ticket; defendant told him then that he must make a declaration, and that there was £4 15s. to pay on the articles. By Mr. M'Carthy: Burgess was tried and convicted on the 6th of the present month. In reply, defendent deposed that he was present at the Quarter Sessions when Burgess was convicted of illegally pawning the articles, the subjects of this proceeding; the property was produced in Court, and by order of the Court it was delivered to him. Sergeant Pirie heard the application at the Quarter Sessions respecting the possession of the coins and stones, and the Court ordered the property to be given to Mr. James, the present defendant. The Bench made an order for the delivery to complainant of the articles named by 4 o'clock this day. Mr. Coonan conducted complainant's case, and Mr. M'Carthy the defence. Several cases of no public interest were disposed of.

WATER POLICE COURT.

Messrs. Marsh (W.P.M.), Jenkins, Greville, and Edwards presided in the Charge Court yesterday; and the bench in the Summons Court was occupied by Messrs. Cane, Stanley, and Playfair.

Edward Jennings, for being drunk and disorderly, was fined 10s.; for assaulting a constable, 40s.; for tearing a uniform, 22s. 6d., with the alternatives altogether of 25 days' imprisonment.

Joseph Dunning was found guilty of stealing a quantity of wearing apparel, valued at 35s., the property of William Price, and was sent to gaol for six months.

Frederick Seale, a suspected person, found frequenting the Melbourne Wharf with intent to commit a felony, was ordered to be imprisoned for three months.

Henry Lincoln was charged with assaulting William Rostron. Mr. Cooke appeared for the complainant. On the 19th instant the complainant, while in uniform and in the execution of his duty, in Margaret-street, asked defendant to move a ladder upon which he was, to enable him to enter a house. The latter would not do so, and complainant shifted it, whereupon the defendant descended and struck the former in the face with his fist. Lincoln was fined 45s. 10d., with a guinea costs, or in lieu thereof 14 days' imprisonment.

SMALL DEBTS COURT, NEWTOWN.

THE BOROUGH OF NEWTOWN V. SWIFT.

The Police Magistrate (Mr. W. Crane) delivered the following judgment yesterday:—

This is a case in which the Borough of Newtown seeks to recover from William Swift the sum of £2 7s. 6d., for watering rates. Although the amount sought to be recovered is only a small sum, yet as a great principle is involved, affecting not only this but all other municipalities, the matter has had much consideration since the adjournment. It was argued at a previous hearing that as King-street, Newtown, was one of the main roads of the colony, this Court had no jurisdiction to try the case, as by the 117th section of the 31 Victoria, No. 12, the Municipalities Act of 1867, the Council "shall, within the boundaries of the municipality, have the care, construction, and management of the public roads, other than the main roads of the colony." The objection at the time was overruled. It was considered that the watering of the road by a water-cart could not be an interference with the care, construction or management of it, especially as a later section, the 165th, enacted, among other things, that the borough of any municipality, in order to provide funds for the watering of any street or road within such municipality, may establish a special rate for that purpose. Had the Legislature considered that the watering of a public road was an interference with its care, construction, or management, some words would have been used such as the watering of any street or road "under their control," or "save and except as aforesaid." I have not yet been able to find any decisions of the Supreme Court having special reference to the point under consideration, and in the absence of such decisions we must look elsewhere for authorities for our guidance. In the case of the Borough of Redfern v. Kimber, and the same against Shirley, tried at the Metropolitan District Court in June, 1879, it was decided that the Borough could impose and recover a rate for watering a street which formed part of the Botany Road, although that road was one of those excepted in the 117th clause aforesaid, and it was admitted that the Council had no right to "interfere" with it within the meaning of the Act; but it was held that this was not an interference, and that a water-rate could be recovered; and in that excellent work by Mr. St. Julian on the present Municipalities Act, and which is admitted as an authority on the subject, at page 112, note m., it is stated (inter alia) in speaking of trust roads—"No such road is wholly exempt from municipal jurisdiction, for the properties which front it on either side are subject to municipal taxation, and all by-laws which have been enacted for the good government of the municipality will also be in force upon such road." And further at page 316 the following occurs:—"As to trust roads, Mr. Fisher (an eminent barrister) is clearly of opinion that a municipal council will have a right to break up a portion of such road passing through or along the boundary of the municipality for the necessary purpose of laying down water mains or gas pipes." A similar opinion was also given by Sir James Martin, then Attorney-General, to the Parramatta Council. It would of course be necessary that this should be done with due care and diligence, and with as little interference as possible with the traffic of the road; also, that all damages should be made good. The cases here cited, and the opinions referred to support the ruling already given. It was also submitted that the police magistrate, being a ratepayer of the borough of Newtown, could not adjudicate in a case similar to the present; but the Act 36 Victoria No. 1, which was framed to remove disqualification of justices of the peace in certain cases, effectually removes such an objection—the second section reciting that a justice of the peace shall not be incapable of acting as such by reason of his being a ratepaper, &c.: the proviso being, no justice who shall be a mayor, alderman, or officer of a municipality shall so act. As the police magistrate does not hold any of these offices, this objection must also be overruled. The judgment, therefore, will be for the plaintiffs for the sum of £2 7s. 6d., the full amount claimed, together with costs.

Mr. S. C. Brown appeared for the municipality, and Mr. Gannon for the defendant.

Mr. W. H. Wills died on September 2, at his residence, Sherrards, Welwyn, Herts, in his seventy-first year. Mr. Wills was closely associated with the late Mr. Charles Dickens. On the starting of the Daily News Mr. Wills was one of the editorial staff, and he afterwards took part in the management of Household Words and All the Year Round. On the death of Mr. Dickens Mr. Wills retired, and was made a justice of the peace for Hertfordshire.

GENERAL PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY.

The sittings of the Presbyterian General Assembly were resumed, at St. Stephen's Church, yesterday morning.

The Assembly having engaged in devotional exercises, proceeded to the transaction of business. The Rev. Henry Macready, the moderator, presided.

PRESBYTERY OF BATHURST.

The Rev. R. S. ANDERSON desired to know why a return had not been sent in from the Bathurst Presbytery, nominating a minister for the election of moderator?

The CLERK of the Assembly said that he had received no return. It was the duty of the different presbyteries to send in their returns without the clerk of the Assembly having occasion to apply for them.

The MODERATOR pointed out that every Presbytery had the right to nominate or not, as they pleased. If the clerk of the Bathurst Presbytery had been remiss in this matter he was accountable to the Presbytery of Bathurst.

The Rev. Dr. GEEKIE, of Bathurst, said that he was responsible for the omission. He explained that at a meeting of the Bathurst Presbytery it was agreed to nominate the Rev. James Cosh, M.A., of Balmain, to fill the moderator's chair; but, through an oversight, the return duly nominating the candidate had not been sent in. He regretted that no candidate had been nominated by the Bathurst Presbytery, and apologised to the Assembly for the omission.

The explanation was considered satisfactory.

COMMISSIONS FROM PALMER-STREET CHURCH.

The Rev. JOHN AULD took objection to the course adopted by the clerk of the Assembly, in reading the name of the elder from the Palmer-street church when calling the roll for the Assembly, the necessary commission having been improperly sent in.

The Rev. Dr. M'GIBBON said that there could be no doubt but that there was a personality in this matter. ["Order."] He explained that the commission intended for the Presbytery of Sydney was sent to the presbytery, while the commission intended for the General Assembly was sent direct to the clerk of the Assembly. It was simply the action of the clerk of session, who was not aware he was transgressing the rule.

After some further discussion, the commission was sustained.

REVISION OF PRESBYTERIAL RECORDS.

The various committees were appointed to revise the Presbyterial records.

Auditors were also appointed to audit the treasurer's accounts, and the Widows and Orphans' Association accounts.

NEW PRESBYTERY IN THE WESTERN DISTRICT.

The Rev. J. B. LAUGHTON, B.A., presented a petition praying that a new presbytery should be erected in the western district. The petition set forth that the Presbytery of Bathurst, as at present constituted, was of such great territorial extent, and its members were settled at such distances from the present headquarters of the presbytery, that it was impossible for the members to attend the meetings of presbytery, and discharge their other presbyterial duties, without great expense, long absences from home, tedious delays, and other serious inconveniences. The great increase of population and the number of new townships and other settlements recently formed in the western district, demanded the erection with all possible expedition, of new pastoral charges—on the Lower Lachlan, on the Bogan, and in the country adjacent to those rivers. A new charge at this moment was ripe for settlement at Condobolin, and others were far advanced, the ministers of all which new charges would be at still greater distances from Bathurst than the present members of presbytery. The rapid development of pastoral, agricultural, and mining interests in the Lachlan and Bogan districts, and in the country adjacent, made it certain that the chief operations of the Presbyterian Church in future, so far as these districts were concerned, must be carried on at very great distances from Bathurst. And as the duties required by the rapid extension of the Church towards the west would necessarily devolve on the ministers nearest to the field of operation, it became a matter of very obvious expediency that Presbyterial organization should be provided for the more convenient, efficient, and expeditious discharge of those duties. It was, therefore, prayed that the present charges of Orange, Forbes, and Grenfell, with Cowra, should be henceforth disjoined from the Presbytery of Bathurst, and that a new presbytery be erected, to be designated the Presbytery of the Lachlan, and to consist of the charges of Orange, Forbes, and Grenfell, with Cowra, together with the new charge about to be formed at Condobolin, and any new charges that may hereafter be formed in the Lachlan and Bogan districts, or in the adjacent country. The Rev. Mr. Laughton thought that the necessity for the erection of this new presbytery was obvious, and he proposed that the prayer of the petition be granted.

The Rev. A. ASPINALL, in seconding the adoption of the petition, trusted that, in view of the urgent necessities of the Church in the Western district, the petition would be sustained.

The petition was adopted.

BLUE-BOOK OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The CLERK laid on the table a copy of the Blue-book of the Presbyterian Church of England.

On the motion of the Rev. P. F. MACKENZIE, the clerk was instructed to reply to the communication of the general secretary of the Presbyterian Church in England thanking the Church for the presentation of the annual blue book, and informing him that the Presbyterian Church of New South Wales would be happy to reciprocate the compliment.

STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE CHURCH.

Overtures were read from the Presbytery of Sydney and several ministers desiring a change in the manner of electing the Standing Committees of the Church.

The Rev. J. M. ROSS proposed the following motion:—"That the overtures on the table be received, and that it be resolved to appoint a select committee to consider and report on the whole question of standing committees, their number, designation, composition, payment of members, times of meeting, or any other cognate question bearing upon the efficient management of the Church's business; and the committee to report on Monday evening."

The Rev. Mr. GIBSON seconded the resolution.

Mr. DAVID BRUCE gave an account of the manner in which the operations of these committees had been carried out in New Zealand. He laid upon the table a copy of the proceedings of the Presbyterian General Assembly in New Zealand for last year.

The Rev. J. B. LAUGHTON, Dr. BEG, Dr. GEEKIE, Dr. WHITE, and other gentlemen, spoke on the subject.

The MODERATOR thought that the overtures brought before the Assembly complained of one matter—namely, the mode of appointing their standing committees. This motion seemed to set aside the overtures in reference to the appointment of standing committees.

The Rev. Dr. WHITE proposed the following amendment:—"That the overture on the table be referred to a committee, with instructions to report to-morrow morning as to the best mode of electing standing committees, and that the wide questions referred to in the motion proposed by Mr. Ross be considered and reported on at the next Assembly."

The amendment was negatived, and the original motion was affirmed by a large majority.

The following were appointed to constitute the select committee:—The Revs. J. B. Laughton, P. F. Mackenzie, Cameron, Bain, Auld, Grimm, Paterson, Ross, Grant, Tait, Armstrong; Drs. Geekie, M'Gibbon, White, and the Moderator; and Messrs. J. Paxton, J. H. Goodlet, Fraser, and Adam; seven to form a quorum.

The Assembly then adjourned to luncheon at the Metropolitan Hotel, King-street. The large dining-room of the hotel was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and a substantial lunch was provided. The Rev. Henry Macready presided, and amongst those present by invitation were the Rev. J. G. Frazer and the Rev. G. G. Howden, as representing the Congregational body; and Mr. Barnet, the Colonial Architect. After lunch a few expressions of goodwill were indulged in. The Rev. Mr. Frazer, in some well-chosen remarks, testified to the pleasure it afforded him of being present that day. Many early associations were revived in his mind when he attended a meeting of Presbyterians, for, though not brought up as a Presbyterian, his earliest impressions were connected with Presbyterian worship in Scotland. It had been his good fortune to know many Presbyterian ministers in the course of his ministry, and he trusted that peace and prosperity might continue to abide with their Church. The Rev. J. Miller Ross, recently from Manchester, said that he was strongly impressed with the unanimity and good feeling prevailing among the Presbyterian Churches of this colony, and he hoped that—considering the wide field there was for the establishment of new charges in the country—their denomination, as an influence for good, would greatly increase. Mr. Barnet, in a few remarks, said that he was glad to see that church architecture was improving in this colony.

DEPUTIES TO THE MELBOURNE CONFERENCE.

The Assembly resumed its sittings in the evening at half-past 6 o'clock, and having been constituted with prayer, the appointment of deputies to the forthcoming Presbyterian Conference at Melbourne was proceeded with.

On the motion of the Rev. Mr. JARVIE, seconded by the Rev. R. S. PATERSON, the following resolution was agreed to:—"That the Moderator, ex-Moderator, Clerk of the Assembly, and Convener of the Church Extension Committee, the Convener of the Heathen Missions Committee, together with the Rev. J. M. Ross, general agent of the Church, and Messrs. J. Paxton and J. H. Goodlet, elders, be appointed as deputies from the General Assembly to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Victoria, and also to the Presbyterian Conference to be held in Melbourne next month; and that the Moderator be authorised to grant a Commission to any other members of this Assembly who may desire to be present in Melbourne at the Assembly or Conference."

DEPUTY FROM NEW ZEALAND.

Mr. Thomas Peacock, one of the deputies of the Presbyterian Church in New Zealand, being present, was introduced to the Assembly by Mr. J. Paxton, and was welcomed by the Moderator.

CHURCH EXTENSION SOCIETY.

The Rev. JAMES CAMERON, convener, presented the report of the Church Extension Society, as follows:—"Your committee in presenting to the Assembly a report of its operations during the past year, feels thankful in being able to state that the results attained are indicative of a larger measure of progress than has been reached we believe in any preceeding year. Although the number of vacant spheres applying for a supply of ordinances is still considerable, and the number greater still of those districts where operations might be, and ought to be commenced, still it is gratifying to find that no small measure of progress has been made during the past year in the filling up of vacancies, and in extending the operations of our Church in various directions. Both men and means have been more plentiful than in former years, a more buoyant tone prevails, and the impression seems general that we are entering on an era of greater expansion and usefulness. The arrival in the colony of the Rev. J. M. Ross marks an important era in our history as a Church. The work assigned to Mr. Ross is to assist in the establishment of a sustentation fund, to organize congregations, and generally to promote the extension of our Church and its financial prosperity. The want of such a general agent of our Church has long been felt, and the success which has so far attended the mission of Mr. Ross warrants the belief that his labours will contribute largely to the expansion of our Church in this land. There have been several additions to the staff of catechists during the year. While it cannot be questioned that, with the present limited supply of ministers, valuable assistance is rendered by our catechists in maintaining ordinances in destitute localities, it must at the same time be admitted that there are grave questions connected with the employment of this class of labourers which call for careful consideration on the part of our Church. Church extension in the suburbs of Sydney: As instructed by last Assembly, the Committee has co-operated with the Presbytery of Sydney's Committee in endeavouring to push forward this important work. The Committee would have been glad if the visible results had been greater than they are, but they are happy to think that, through the exertion of the Presbytery of Sydney's committee, of which Dr. White is convener, a hopeful beginning has been made. An eligible site has been secured at Petersham, and the building of a church is about to be commenced. At Double Bay and Randwick valuable sites are available, and movements have been initiated for the building of churches in these localities. At Manly Beach also, where a site has been secured, it is proposed to make arrangements for the supply of ordinances during the summer months. New churches: New churches have been erected, or are in course of erection, at Canterbury, Cooma, Eskbank, Armidale, Richmond River, and Milson's Point. According to the instructions of last Assembly, Rev. John Kinross, B.A., principal of St. Andrew's College, was duly accredited by the Committee to represent this Church in the second General Presbyterian Council, appointed to meet in Philadelphia in September of this year. The thanks of this Church are due both to Principal Kinross and to Rev. Dr. Steel, for their advocacy of our interests on the other side of the globe. Intercolonial Conference: The Intercolonial Conference, which was inaugurated in Sydney last year, is to meet next month in Melbourne, to resume the discussion of topics of general interest for our Presbyterian Churches. The Committee would respectfully suggest to the Assembly the propriety of appointing deputies to represent this Church in the Victorian General Assembly, or at least in the Conference above referred to. The Committee earnestly hopes that the recommendations embodied in last year's report, and sent down to presbyteries for their consideration, will this year obtain the sanction of the Assembly. The following supplementary grants have been paid by the Committee:—To Moruya, £50; to Wallsend, £50; to Liverpool, £50; to Petersham, £30. The revenue for the past year from supplies was £432 12s. 10d.; from congregational collections, £570 5s. 11d.; donations, £195 5s.; total, £1394 9s. 1d. The expenditure was £1259 0s. 3d., leaving a balance in hand of £135 8s. 10d. Vacant charges: The following charges, though more or less supplied by the Committee, are still without settled ministers, viz.:—Carcoar, Queanbeyan, Young, Wagga, Glen Innes, Liverpool, Campbelltown, and Murrurundi. Ministers have been applied for for Coonabarabran, the Gwydir, Rocky Mouth, and Hillston; while Temora, Parkes, the Upper Bogan, Bourke, the Lower Bogan, Wellington, Molong, Tenterfield, and various other localities, call for earnest attention on the part of the Church. Supply of ministers: The Committee acknowledges with thankfulness its obligations to the home Churches, especially to the Colonial Committee of the Free Church of Scotland, for the valuable addition received during the year to our staff of labourers. Six have already arrived from the home country, and a seventh is probably on his way from the Irish Presbyterian Church. Two have been received from Victoria, and two have been licensed in the colony. The experience of the past year has served to convince us that if proper measures be adopted for making our wants known, and if the money for importing them can be supplied, we may each year obtain valuable accessions from home. There are at present four young men studying for the ministry, two of them being resident in St. Andrew's College. Although the number of labourers received from home during the past year has been considerable, it would be most unwise for the Church on this ground to relax her efforts for the raising up of a native ministry. On this more than ever the attention of the Church should be fixed, for it becomes increasingly evident from year to year that to this source mainly we ought to look for the future supply of suitable men for the work of the ministry in this land. The following are some of the arrangements for obtaining, as occasion may require, a supply of suitable probationers and ministers from the home Presbyterian churches, suggested by the Rev. J. M. Ross, who has already rendered important service in connection with the introduction of ministers from home, and recommended by the Committee for adoption by the Assembly:—1. That an honorary agent, resident in London, be appointed to represent this Church and to act for it, in conjunction with the colonial committees of the home churches. 2. That Mr. Robert Morton, of 40, The Chase, Clapham Common, London, S. W., be the honorary agent. 3. That the name of the church's agent, in Sydney as well as in London, be registered for cable communication, when such shall be found necessary. 4. That the honorary agent in London see this church's home treasurer in the matter of sending out from Great Britain and Ireland additional labourers; that to him all passage and outfit moneys for the said object be transmitted, and that he be authorised to pay over the same to the labourers, duly appointed, proceeding to the colony. 5. That the Church Extension Committee keep the London honorary agent informed as to the number of labourers required, and as to the character of vacant charges and preaching stations, that he may be in a position to give such information at home as may be needful in securing a sufficient supply of suitable labourers for the colony. These arrangements, or such modification of them as may be adopted by the Assembly, would obviously contribute to give greater unity and effectiveness to our negotiations with Churches and parties at home, so as to secure a continued supply of ministerial labourers from the mother country, which, according to present appearances, we shall not be in a position to dispense with for years to come. In conclusion, your committee, while giving God thanks for what has been accomplished in the past, would urge upon the Assembly the need of greater efforts for the time to come. The rapidity with which the tide of population is spreading over the land—the increasing number of those for whose spiritual interest no man is caring—the clamant demand thus arising in so many places for a supply of Gospel ordinances—all combine to address to us an earnest appeal to have compassion on the multitudes, to spare no effort to extend to them as speedily as possible the provision of Zion, and to press upon their acceptance that living bread which has come down from heaven, and of which, if a man eat, he shall live for ever."

The Rev. J. M. JARVIE proposed the following resolution,—"That this Assembly receive and approve the report; thank the committee, and especially the convener, for their diligence; adopt the proposed regulations regarding an honorary home agent and the supply of ministers from Great Britain and Ireland; appoint Mr. Robert Mortain, of London, to act for this Church in terms of these regulations, and cordially thank that gentleman for so generously agreeing to act." He was deeply impressed with the conviction that the Church Extension Society was called upon by God to accomplish a great work in this colony.

The Rev. J. M. ROSS, in seconding the resolution, observed that the work being done by the society was a most important one, considering the enormous field which was to be opened up in the colony for the extension of the Church. The greatest possible credit was due to the society for the work they had accomplished in the past, and to the convener in particular, who had manifested a large amount of zeal and a real desire to carry out the work undertaken by him, and this in the face of many difficulties.

The Rev. Dr. WHITE thought it was a most remarkable thing that they, as a Church, had not opened up any new ground during the past year; but, at the same time, he considered the work done by the committee was of a very favourable nature. He was delighted to find the interest of the society had been awakened with regard to the suburbs, for he had always maintained that the work to be accomplished by the society in the suburbs was of an important character.

The Rev. Dr. M'GIBBON, in supporting the resolution, joined in the congratulations expressed in the report as to the work done by the Church Extension Society during the past year. He, however, thought that the catechists had been ill-treated in a measure. To a large extent they had been left to work in districts all alone, and had been perpetually reminded of their inferiority. If, on the other hand, they were under the care of adjoining ministers they would be a greater power for good. Many of the catechists were useful men, and if their positions were properly defined they would be more useful than they were at present.

After some further discussion, the motion was agreed to.

The MODERATOR, in conveying the thanks of the Assembly to the Rev. James Cameron, the convener, remarked that the report was of a very encouraging character, and he believed all the members of the Assembly felt thankful to God that Mr. Cameron had been so long spared to do the good service to the Church in carrying out the work through the committee so zealously and so faithfully, and they trusted that he would long be spared to mark the fulfilment of his labours, and to see the Presbyterian banner flaunting in every part of the land.

The Assembly, at 10.35 p.m., adjourned until 10 o'clock, this morning.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL.—ITS GREAT VALUE AS A NUTRIMENT FOR WEAKLY CHILDREN.—In cases of languid and imperfect nutrition often observed in children, the surprising efficacy of Dr. de Jongh's Oil is thus described by Dr. Edward Carey: "It is in the diseases incidental to childhood that mainly depend on the mal-assimilation of the food in the pale cachectic child, when the anxious practitioner has exhausted the whole range of alteratives and tonics, that Dr. de Jongh's Cod Liver Oil will come in and satisfy his most sanguine expectations. Where the powers of life are low it affords nourishment to the body when none other can be borne; it furnishes the frame with fat in a truly wonderful manner; and administered as it is in Holland, to the delicate and puny child who, though not considered ill, is in that state of impaired health which would favour the development of disease, its extraordinary effects will soon be visible, after having taken it for a short period, in a return to health and strength which were before unknown, and which will be accomplished by no other remedy with which we are acquainted." Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil is sold only in capsuled imperial half-pints, pints, and quarts, by all chemists and druggists. Sole consignees, Ansar, Harford, and Co., 77, Strand, London. The barque Result, from Newcastle to Melbourne, which has not been heard of since she sailed on September 26, is supposed to have been lost with all hands during one of the gales that prevailed on the coast after she sailed. The Victorian Government steamer Victoria left Melbourne yesterday to make a search for the missing vessel. The Result was a vessel of 724 tons. She was built at Medford, U.S., in 1852, and belonged to James Huddart and three others, of Melbourne. It is reported that the coasting schooners Lucy Ravel, timber laden, from the Richmond, and schooner Minnie Law, in ballast, from Nambucca, bound to Port Macquarie, have not been heard of since the latter part of September.

Very few ships are at present due from England, the William Duthie is the longest out, being 93 days from Plymouth; the Duchess of Edinburgh is out 81 days from Scilly; Trafalgar, and Flensborg are each 79 days out from Dover.

The figure-head of a large vessel, formed of a gilt lion rampant, with three stars on the breast, has been washed ashore at Beachport, Rivoli Bay, S. A., and does not appear to have been long in the water. It is also reported that four drums of naphtha have been found on the beach 12 miles E. of Macdonnell Bay, S. A.

The Excelsior, barque, from Port Pirie to London, is reported at Callao, 162 days out.

An excursion was made by the Lighthouse Commission down Port Phillip Bay on the 15th instant (says the Australian Shipping News) which occupied the night, the object of the trip being to ascertain by actual inspection what improvements could be made in the various lights in the different parts of the bay. It is also proposed, we believe, to light the buoys in the principal channels with gas, the mode of obtaining the illuminating medium being, we suppose, that known as Pintsch's compressed gas, of which we gave a full description in our issue of May 21, 1879, and quoted records of experiments, all of which go to prove the extreme value of the process.

The inquiry regarding the collision between the Hydaspes and Centurion was concluded on August 18, and the Wreck Commissioner delivered a long judgment, of which the following is the conclusion:—"There was no blame attached to those on the Napoleon (steam-tug). She kept a good lookout, and reported to the Hydaspes. The fault of not shortening the tow-rope lay with the master of the Hydaspes. As regarded the Centurion, the speed at which she was going was not an immoderate speed for the state of the weather, and he was told by the assessors it would have been positively dangerous to have altogether stopped her. She was going as slowly as she could, and it was better to keep her under way and under command than to have stopped her altogether. The master had, therefore, no right to interfere with the pilot. The pilotage being compulsory, any blame attached to the Centurion for navigation must rest with the pilot. They were asked by the Board of Trade to deal with the certificates of both captains. So far as the captain of the Centurion was concerned, no blame attached to him. As regarded the Hydaspes, the blame attached to the master was, in their opinion, of so very unimportant a character that they should never think of touching his certificate on that account. No doubt a more skilful man would have shortened his tow-rope, but his neglect to do so was of such a nature that they should not visit it with any punishment. They hoped, however, he would take warning by this case. As regarded the pilot of the Centurion, they found him to blame for porting before ascertaining what the course of the vessel was; still they thought that the mistake he made was more an error of judgment, and of comparatively so trifling a character that the Court trusted the effect of their judgment would not be the suspension of his certificate. There would be no order as to costs."

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

Wednesday Evening.

The number of sales reported in the Stock and Share market to-day was larger than it has been for some time past. Bank stock had a full share of the investments, and prices were firm: City, salable at 11¼, offered at 12; Commercial, fully paid, realized 104—no new issue for sale; Joint Stock inquired for at 15⅞, held for 16; Mercantile had buyers at 5⅞, sellers at 6; New South Wales changed hands at 56, and were offered at that figure; New Zealand in request at 20⅜, held for 20⅝; Queensland National stronger, all obtainable at 7½ were taken up and more required; holders quoted 7¾. Union were taken at 64½, and for sale at 65. Steam shares firm, Australasian rose 2s. 6d., sales at 18 to 18¼, closing with buyers at 18½, sellers at 18¾; no demand for Clarence and Richmond, old issue obtainable at 5, and preferential at 13; Hunter River scarce and wanted at 7½; buyers of Illawarra at 5½, sellers at 6¼; North Shore Ferry improving, sales at 17s. 6d. to 17s. 9d., sellers at 18s. Insurance stock had an unusually good sale, at full quotations; Accident had buyers at 1s., sellers at 1s. 4d.; Australian Fire advanced to 8s. 3d. buyers, without leading to business; General inquired for at 83s., held for 88s.; City were disposed of at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 4d.; and 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d. paid for Mercantile; New South Wales not asked for, 79s. would have been accepted; for Pacific 62s. to 62s. 6d. was obtained, 63s. demanded; Sydney Fire wanted at 72s., for sale at 76s.; buyers of Sydney Marine at 32s., sellers at 35s.; United rose to 44s. sales, 45s. asked. Australian Gaslight of both issues unchanged. Pyrmont Bridge had buyers at 6⅝, sellers at 7¼. Shale and Oil steady at 9s. 6d. buyers, offered at 10s. 3d. Coffee Palace hardly so strong, 23s. 6d. would have been taken. Volunteer land orders had no sellers under 138. Coal shares quiet: Bulli wanted at 11¼, for sale at 12; Wallsend asked for at 13¾, held for 14¼; Waratah in request at 7½, offered at 7¾, sold at 7½; Vale of Clwydd were done at 16s. 6d. Great Cobar Copper about the same—76s. to 76s. 6d. paid, 77s. demanded. Gold shares steady, Krohmann's realized 3s. 3d., and were offered at that; for Star of Peace 3s. was declined, 4s. wanted; Band and Albion dealt in at 6¼ to 6½, and for sale at 6⅝. There were no debentures in the market—buyers offered late quotations.

In the Import markets the demand was not active, even for country orders, a usual feature at the close of the month. Breadstuffs have an improving tendency and there is an increasing sale for flour, in consequence of country stocks running out; prices are firm at up to £12. For wheat there is not much inquiry, and very little on hand. Dried fruits are advancing steadily; some holders of currants ask 6¼d., and even 6½d. for small lots of prime quality. We note that a similar tone prevails in the Melbourne market, where stocks are said to be short, and extreme rates required. Liquors in steady request at late rates, small sales of groceries and oilmen's stores are being made at the quotations given this morning. Sugars are improving, private sales of Port Mackay counters at £29 to £30. At Messrs. Fraser and Co.'s auction sale, a quantity of colonial and Queensland grown changed hands at values showing a stronger market, £26 10s. to £30 was realized, and some lines of sundries disposed of at full rates. The same firm will sell to-morrow the shipment of lumber, &c., ex R. M. S. Zealandia. The supply of local produce offered at Darling Harbour this morning was rather short, but it had very little effect in stimulating the market, as there was no material difference in the prices realized and in those obtained at last day's sale. Prime oaten hay sold at from 5s. to 5s. 2d.; other sorts, down to 3s. There was no lucerne forward. Straw was dull, clean lots selling at 2s. 3d.; inferior, from 1s. 7d. A mixed truck of rye and wheaten brought 8s. 6d. Wheaten, in bundles, from 2s. 10d. to 3s. 4d.; in sheaves, 1s. 10d. per cwt. Potatoes averaged about 2s. 3d. There was one truck of oaten chaff forward, which sold at 4s. 9d. per cwt. Business is still in a very stagnant condition at the wharfs. There is some request for very prime lucerne hay, but although there are immense supplies coming to hand a great portion is below first class. Quotations have not altered since yesterday. Maize is worth from 2s. 1d. to 2s. 2d. No change in potatoes; the market is glutted, and holders are obliged to force sales at whatever figures they can get. Onions are in rapid demand, and are now quoted up to £20 per ton. A large line at auction yesterday realized £10 5s. Dairy produce is very plentiful, and sells slowly at late quotations. Bacon is quoted at from 3d. to 6d.; hams, from 6d. to 9d. Poultry is selling moderately at recent rates. Fowls realize from 3s. 6d. to 3s. 9d.; ducks, from 4s. to 4s. 6d.; turkeys, from 5s. to 12s.; geese, from 6s. to 7s. 8d. Eggs sell freely at 1s. per dozen. Lard is worth from 3d. to 4d. per lb.; honey, from 2½d. to 6d.; beeswax, from 6d. to 10d.; millet brooms, from 8s. to 10s. per dozen; tobacco leaf, from 4d. to 8d. Pigs and calves are unchanged at late quotations.

The fifty-eighth half-yearly meeting of the New South Wales Marine Insurance Company was held this morning, when the report was adopted and a dividend declared at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum. The balance at credit of profit and loss, after payment of the June dividend, was £9874 2s. 1d.; the net premiums for the six months amounted to £10,153 18s.; and interest and rent swelled the receipts to £20,885 1s. 8d. The expenditure on account of losses and average was £6961 6s.; charges, fees, &c., absorbed £3217 14s. 2d.—making a total of £10,179 0s. 2d., leaving £10,706 1s. 6d. available for appropriation. It was estimated that £5300 would be required to reinsure outstanding claims, £1776 wanted for unadjusted losses, and after paying the dividend there will be £2505 1s. 6d. to credit of new account. Messrs. R. Jones, jun., and J. Hinchcliff were elected directors, and Messrs. H. C. D'Ardier and G. N. Griffiths elected auditors. The directors received the usual vote of thanks.

A dividend of 5s. per share was declared at the half-yearly meeting of the Illawarra S. N. Co., held to-day. The net profits for the six months were £2647 0s. 7d., and there was a balance of £500 15s. 1d. from previous account, making in all £3147 15s. 8d. The dividend will absorb £2771 5s., and there will remain a balance of £376 10s. 8d. to be carried forward. The ship property of the company is now valued at £47,900, and the total assets at £78,198 18s. 3d.

The fifth half-yearly meeting of shareholders of the North Shore Ferry Co. took place at the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday afternoon. Mr. D. S. Dawson occupied the chair, and on his motion the report was read and adopted. The profits for the six months, together with the credit balance from previous account, amounted to £919 16s. 2d., from which a dividend equal to 8½ per cent. per annum was declared, and a balance of £299 4s. 5d. carried to next half-year.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have sold by private contract "The Warren Estate," Cook's River, comprising the mansion and grounds of the Hon. Thomas Holt, M.L.C., for the sum of £50,000.

Messrs. Mort and Co.'s wool sale passed off well again to-day. There was a full attendance of buyers, and competition very active, especially for good lines. Only a moderate catalogue was submitted, pending the arrival of the balance of a number of clips, portions of which are in store. Greasy fleece realized up to 13½d., and washed fleece 21½d. The prices realized for the following well-known clips give the best indication of the present condition of the market, viz.:—HCW, greasy, at 13d.; WW over S. White at 12d.; GXB, 12½d.; HL conjoined over St. Hs. at 12¾d.; JS over ☰ over MCD, 11½d.; MH over HC, 11d.; ☰ over RH a, 11⅝d.; BUN, 13⅛d.; RY over Armatree at 9½d.; MR at 9½d.; washed fleece, CES, at 18½d.; S. White over Clarendon at 21½d.; Nubba, 170 bales at 21½d.; BUN, 19d. Sheepskins were also in fair request, and realized up to 7½d. per lb.

Messrs. Goldsbrough and Co. report by telegram from Melbourne:—

We catalogued 11,430 bales wool to-day, and had a splendid attendance of buyers, the saleroom being crowded; biddings opened with great spirit, competition was brisk throughout, every lot being keenly sought after. We sold 9200 bales, and expect to sell remainder, offers being close up, greasy realized 7d. to 13¼d.; latter price for Geraldra; also, for Glenara clips, greasy lambs to 14¼d.; washed, 12d. to 24d.; 23d. being realised for 400 bales from Netley station, river Darling; 2500 bales greasy sold from 1s. to 13¼d.; Geraldra, 13¼d.; Colane, 10¼d.; Murrill Creek, 12¼d.

The Customs duties received to-day were as follows:—

Messrs. Pitt, Son, and Badgery report by telegram from Warrah:—We sold, to-day, 133 Warrah bulls, averaging £13 10s.; and (in conjunction with Sparke and Clift) 31 of Tindall's, averaging £13 5s.

MINING.

Great Cobar Copper Co.—Mining manager reports for four weeks ending 16th instant: In the underground workings, the end going north from Becker's shaft, at the 15-fathom level, has been extended 13 feet. The end going north from the same shaft at the 26-fathom level has been extended 18 feet. The end going north from the same shaft at the 39-fathom level, has been extended 26 feet. The cross-cut being driven west from the 39-fathom level, south of Hardie's shaft, has been extended 32 feet; and the cross-cut being driven west from the 26-fathom level, south of Renwick's shaft, has been extended 8 feet. A winze being sunk below the 26-fathom level, north of Barton's shaft, has been sunk 7 feet; and a pass being sunk about half-way between Barton's and Becker's shafts has been sunk down 40 feet. The result of the past month's work at the 54-fathom level Becker's shaft proves that the lode is widening out, as I extend this level south, and the lode is now 30 feet wide at this place, composed of the same character and quality ore as previously reported. At the 54-fathom level Barton's shaft the lode still continues about the same character and quality, and as I have now got the rock-drills to work at this place I expect to make good speed in extending the ends north and south from this shaft. The lode in the different stopes at the 39, 26, and 15-fathom levels, shows well for producing large quantities of ore. About 3000 tons of ore have been raised from the different stopes, and things generally throughout the mine are in good working order. At the smelting works 2122 tons of ore have been smelted, producing equal to 234 tons of fine copper. 230 tons of copper have been refined. No. 14 furnace and stack have been completed, also shed over the same, and good progress is now being made in building the other new furnaces. I have now at work 11 furnaces reducing ore, 2 furnaces roasting regulus, and 1 furnace refining.

THE ST. JAMES'S BUDGET, being A Weekly Edition of the "St. James's Gazette."
Forty Pages, Price Sixpence.
When, immediately after Mr. Gladstone's return to office, an arrangement was made by which the Pall Mall Gazette was to give up all its old opinions and take to new ones, there was no choice for its Editor, or for the Writers who had created and maintained its reputation, but to abandon the paper. This they did accordingly; but only to come together again, within the space of four weeks, under the flag of THE ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.
The new paper thus named leapt at once into a great success; and now, in response to many inquiries from India, from America, and from British Colonists in various parts of the world, a weekly edition is printed under the title of THE ST. JAMES'S BUDGET.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1880.

A deputation from the new electorate of Balmain waited upon the Colonial Secretary on Tuesday, with the purpose of putting in a claim to two representatives in the next Assembly. Under section 5 of the Electoral Act, and schedule A, Balmain is entitled to return one member; but the electors consider that under section 7 they are entitled to return two, because the number on the roll exceeds 3000, and it can be proved that for the past two years the number of electors in the district has not fallen below four-fifths of 3000. As Sir Henry Parkes was the framer of the bill, passed it through the House, and spoke several times in defence of the self-adjusting provisions, the deputation could hardly have gone to better authority to ascertain what the Assembly intended to be the effect of the new legislation upon this point. His opinion is that the electors of Balmain would not be entitled to an additional member "until they had proved that they had had the necessary number of electors after the district had been erected into a separate constituency," which seems to mean until they had proved so much in the manner prescribed by the Act. The probability is that neither Sir Henry Parkes nor any other member had an idea, when the bill was under discussion, that any electorate would start at the first election with a greater number of members than that prescribed by the Act. Nothing can be gleaned from the reports of the debates to warrant the belief that the system was intended to be worked by means of inquiries or calculations as to facts antecedent to the passing of the Act. But, as the Premier very well knows, the question is not what individual members thought or intended; it is, rather, what do the words of the Act require or prescribe? He, therefore, promised to take the opinion of the Attorney-General, and inform the deputation of the result.

As we have before pointed out, the right of an electorate to return an additional member is acquired subject to certain specified conditions; and the action of the Executive, which must be taken before that right can be exercised, is regulated by specific rules. The proclamation declaring an electoral district to be entitled to return an additional member must be issued by the Governor after it shall have appeared to him that "the number of electors on the roll for the time being for such district" has reached the number prescribed, and has not been less than four-fifths of that number during the then next preceding twenty-four calendar months. The Governor cannot, therefore, act upon any statement or calculation as to the number of electors within a certain area during the two years. He can only take cognizance of the number of electors appearing throughout the two years on the roll for the time being for the district claiming the additional member. Only one roll for the electoral district of Balmain can be produced, because until the passing of the new Act no such electoral district existed; and the evidence, without which the Governor has no power to issue the proclamation, is not now to be procured.

There is little doubt that the Attorney-General, who in a matter of this kind will have to consider the dry meaning of the statute, and put a strict interpretation upon it, will confirm the impression which seems to have been formed by Sir Henry Parkes. If not, we should have the new Parliament beginning with several more than 108 members. That number, however, should be enough for some time to come. Admitting the merits of the self-adjusting scheme, it is to be regretted that it is introduced at so high a level. There is no provision in it for reducing the representation of districts where the population may fall off, and the only changes it contemplates are in the direction of a gradual increase of members at successive general elections. In the course of comparatively few years there may be a couple of hundred members, and it is a question yet to be answered by experience whether the country will not lose, rather than gain, by overcrowding the Assembly.

In view, however, of the large actual increase, and prospective additions to it, there is a greater necessity than before for increasing the numerical strength of the Legislative Council. Whether the Upper House retain its present constitution or be made elective, its numbers ought to be enlarged considerably, even if it were for the sake of appearances only. The Council has already been taunted with the numerical insignificance of its division-lists at times when questions of great importance were being disposed of; and it would be subjecting the Council to a sort of moral pressure and restraint to throw upon a dozen members the responsibility of standing in the way of the crowd in the Assembly. We do not say that the rights or powers, or the consequent duties and obligations, of the Council will be diminished by enlarging the number of members in the Assembly. The rights will remain as before, and the obligations may possibly become more stringent. But, at the same time, the altered conditions may put a severer strain upon the courage of the Council in endeavouring faithfully to discharge its duty to the country.

The Treasurer's speech in Victoria, although disclosing a policy of primary importance to that colony, is not without interest to New South Wales. It will be seen that notwithstanding Mr. Berry's desire to get rid of the Border Customs, he has no great passion for general intercolonial commerce, and that he has added to the duties on New South Wales produce. The duty on grain has been increased from one shilling to two shillings per cental, and that on maize from sixpence to a shilling. This has probably been done to conciliate the support of the farmers by giving them additional protection, but the total amount of revenue to be gained by it is only £18,000, and when it is remembered that that is gained at the cost of diminished intercourse with a neighbouring colony, its net value can hardly appear very great, even to a protectionist province. It must be obvious, too, that the more Mr. Berry piles up the duties at the port, the more difficult he makes it to have free trade in produce across the border. Free grain going into Victoria across the river is inconsistent with heavier taxes on the same kind of grain entering the colony by the seaboard. It is strange that he should not see the inter-colonial effect of his policy, but he appears to be so wedded to protection as to be blind to other things.

He has met his deficit, partly by retrenchment, and partly by new taxes. He has saved £156,000, a large part of which is in salaries. This is good if the officers dismissed are really not wanted and will not have to be replaced, and if the retrenchment has been carried out on principles that will make a good precedent. But if it is true, as we are told, that he has been dismissing old and well-tried officers, and putting back into the service incompetent men like Mr. Farrell, or his own sons, who cannot pass the simple Civil Service examination, and gazetting their appointments as made on account of their "proved ability," then the custom that he has been establishing will be one hereafter more honoured in the breach than the observance. Still mixed up with a great many bad dismissals and reappointments, there may be a good many that are thoroughly defensible, and in all such cases the retrenchment is a matter for general congratulation.

Looking at the new taxes it will be seen that the principal burden falls on beer and land, the former of which is to furnish £60,000, and the latter £70,000. We suppose that it is intended that one tax should fall on the poor man, and the other on the rich, seeing that the land tax is to touch only those who have large estates. It is to be an additional amount levied from those who already pay, and it is to be done by means of a reclassification, and not by a nominal increase of the rate. It would have been a fairer thing, however, if more money was wanted from the land, to have gone lower down in the scale, and taken in a larger number of landowners. At present it is rather a large estate tax than a land tax, and is not so much part of a general fiscal system, as a policy of taxing a small class of landowners. A true land tax would tax equitably all land down to minimum holdings. This will doubtless come some day, but the establishment of an equitable system will have to be left to some of Mr. Berry's successors.

The tax on beer is to take the form of an excise. It is to amount to 2d. a gallon, and the mode of collecting it is to be assimilated to that which has been adopted in Tasmania, and which we believe has been borrowed from American practice. If this should be carried by the Victorian Parliament, it will be curious that a tax first proposed and rejected in New South Wales, should have been adopted by two of its neighbours. Mr. Berry also proposes what has been rejected in our Parliament, namely, an increase in tobacco duties, and an excise duty on colonial tobacco.

When he last submitted a taxation scheme he failed to a large extent, although he was supported by a good general majority in Parliament. He has a much smaller majority now, and, therefore, it is by no means certain that he will be able to carry all his new duties. But if he can do so, and keep to his retrenchment, he will establish an equilibrium in his budget, although he will still have half a million of deficit to fetch up.

If Mr. Berry should not succeed in carrying all his taxes, no other party will be able to twit him with his failure, because none has been more successful. Nor can we of New South Wales claim any superiority in this matter over our neighbours. The universal experience of Australian Parliaments has been that it is extremely difficult to get them to consent to new taxes, while at the same time it is extremely difficult to keep down the pressure for public expenditure. Mr. Berry has had his share of these difficulties, although he has been helped by his protectionist policy, and by the popular jealousy of large landholders, and has thus been enabled to raise revenue in a way and to an extent that has been denied to other Treasurers. Even these resources, however, are not inexhaustible, and he has not found it an easy matter to keep the expenditure down to the income, or bring the income up to the expenditure. We have occasionally speakers in this colony who tell us that if we would only fall back on ad valorem duties we should never have any more financial difficulties. The experience of Victoria does not support this view, and we shall never be free from difficulty until we can apply to public affairs the same principle that an honest man applies to his own, and rigidly keep the annual expenditure within the limits of our probable income.

In a letter which was published in yesterday's Herald, Mr. Thomas Walker shows himself anxious to define his position with regard to the contempt of Court case that has been brought so prominently under public notice. Though not taking a leading part in politics, Mr. Walker has often shown himself a cool and keen critic of what is going on, and as having strong sympathies with liberty in politics and liberty in commerce, and he may be taken as a fair representative of a large class of the community who are more observant than demonstrative. Probably the last thing that the Judges thought of when they raised this question was that they would be bringing the doctrine and practice of the Court under review in a way and to an extent that has been very unusual, and that their action would probably lead to a change in the law. The law, as it stands, is wholly Judge-made; but at the same time it must be confessed that the Parliament and the people have acquiesced in it, and that no sustained attempt has ever been made to alter it. It is certainly somewhat curious that amongst a people so careful of their liberties as the English have shown themselves against Kings and aristocracies, there should so long have been a submission to exaggerated claims on the part of the Courts. This has been partly due to the fact that the despotic powers assumed have not very often been abused; and also to the fact that some powers for maintaining order, and protecting the Courts from interference, must exist. But when the law, as laid down by our Chief Justice is fairly looked in the face it is seen to conflict with some of the most cherished principles of the English people; and it is certainly anomalous that two such opposite sets of doctrine should have grown up side by side. It would not be difficult, however, so to alter the law as to give to the Courts the fullest powers necessary for the preservation of order, and at the same time give to all persons accused of any offence against the Courts that opportunity of a free trial which is considered to be a part of a Briton's birthright. This, we have little doubt is the change that will be effected, and the privileges of the Courts will then be made to harmonise with the privileges of subjects.

People are beginning to be curious, not to say anxious, about the next elections. Within two days after the dissolution is gazetted the new writs must issue, and they must be made returnable not later than the thirty-fifth clear day from the date of issue. Parliament must meet not later than on the seventh day after that on which the writs are returnable. That gives not more than forty-four days from the date of the dissolution to the date of the meeting of the new Parliament. It would follow from this that the dissolution should take place, and the elections be got through, so as to admit of the assembling of Parliament at a convenient time. It would not be convenient for country members to have to come to Sydney merely for a few days before Christmas, and then have to adjourn for the holidays almost immediately. They ought at least to have a month before Christmas, if they are to do any serious business, and in that case they should meet by the 30th of November, at the latest. To do that the dissolution should be gazetted next week, and the elections completed within three weeks after. Unless that is done, either the elections will be greatly hurried, or there will be no meeting of Parliament at all until the middle of next January. It is doubtful whether it would be legal to postpone till next year the session which is proper to that of this year. Such a thing has never been done yet, and we should be sorry to see the precedent established. The spirit, if not the letter, of the law is that each year should have its own session; and if the new Parliament is not to meet till January, then this year will only have had the fag-end of the session of last year.

In another column will be found a letter from Mr. Torpy, Mayor of Orange, rebutting the charge of localism made against him, but at the same time contending that localism is necessary to neutralize the neglect of the country, and the subordination of its interests to those of the metropolis. A late member boasted that he had secured half-a-million for Orange, and was duly feted for his performance. It is strange, therefore, to have now a complaint that Orange has been neglected. Mr. Torpy attacks both Parliament and the Herald for preferring the town to the country, but the proofs he gives do not sustain his accusation. The Exhibition was for the whole colony, and could not well have been held in Orange. The great object of it was to show what the natural resources of the country were, and in that it very largely succeeded. In the opinion of many who are in a position to see more than can be seen from an Orange point of view, the Exhibition will be worth to the colony all it cost, even if it has not already indirectly recouped the expenditure. But be that as it may, it was certainly never designed simply to benefit the metropolis. Mr. Torpy refers to the million for the city waterworks; and if he can point us to a line in the Herald in which we have ever advocated the imposition of that expenditure on the general revenue, we shall be very much obliged to him. We have always urged that municipal outlay for water or drainage should be a purely local charge, and that the same principle should apply to the metropolis and the country towns. If Mr. Torpy, as a country Mayor, will aid in the establishment of that principle, we shall rejoice in his co-operation. The grant of £150,000 for the Town Hall, to which he refers, is one we have no knowledge of. We admit the application of the sponge to the City debt, but that would never have been necessary if the persistent advice of the Herald had been taken, nor did we ever advocate or commend the act. At the same time it should not be forgotten that a far larger sum was voted for country districts than for the metropolis; and that, in proportion to population, the citizens have had less of our great surplus than the country people have had. The complaint Mr. Torpy makes of the local rates between Orange and Wellington is mainly due to the application of the principle of reduced charge for distance—a principle by which Orange is a gainer in many ways, and which has been adopted at the instance of many inland towns. As to the railway rates generally, they must be fixed in the interest of the whole community, and not in that of particular classes and particular townships. Mr. Torpy's accusation, therefore, that the metropolis is favoured at the expense of the country, breaks down. Assuredly that is not our policy, which has always been that of decentralisation and municipal development, and of making the great public services self-supporting.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The P. and O. Company's new steamship Rosetta, with the English mails via Suez, to September 24, arrived at King George's Sound yesterday morning, ten hours in advance of contract time. The Sydney portion of her mails will most probably be delivered next Thursday morning. In another column will be found a list of passengers, and a telegraphic summary of news brought by the Rosetta.

We understand that the Government are about to take land for the Free Library in the very central site which is bounded on the east by Elizabeth-street, on the west by Castlereagh-street, on the north by Park-street, and on the south by Bathurst-street: and intend forthwith to call for tenders for building.

The Earl and Countess of Belmore attended the Fermanagh Agricultural Society's show, in Enniskillen, in August last. The Earl is much improved in health.

A well-attended meeting of the Duke of Manchester banquet committee was held, in the Mayor's room, at the Town Hall, yesterday. His Worship the Mayor was in the chair. Amongst those present were—Sir John Robertson; Mr. R. Burdett Smith, M.L.A.; Hon. G. A. Lloyd; Mr. John Davies, M.L.A., C.M.G.; Mr. Sydney Burdekin, Mr. James Jones, Mr. J. Henniker Heaton, &c. A telegram from the Duke of Manchester was read as follows: "To R. Burdett Smith and C. J. Roberts, Esqrs.—I shall be happy to accept the invitation of the Mayor and committee for Friday. Manchester, Dubbo, Wednesday." The list of toasts was prepared, a large number of influential names were added to the committee, and the banquet was appointed to be held in the Sydney Exchange to-morrow evening. The chair will be taken by the Right Worshipful the Mayor. Sir Henry Parkes will propose the health of the noble guest. It will be remembered that the Duke, in his capacity as Vice-President of the Royal Colonial Institute, in his place in the House of Lords, and on numerous public occasions, has rendered signal service to our colonial empire.

The operation of the regulations under the new Public Instruction Act, we learn, has had the effect of considerably enlarging the enrolment and attendance at the Public and Denominational schools of the colony. Although some may have thought that the old method of paying the teachers partly by fees would have stimulated them to the utmost in securing a large attendance of pupils, it seems to have been less effective in accomplishing that object than the new system of payment based on classification and attendance, and the other regulations since adopted. In many of the schools the attendance has been so much increased that the teachers have become entitled to higher salaries, which will be paid to them, in accordance with the regulations. In the substitution of a new system of payment difficulties necessarily arose through the existence of some anomalies, and certain teachers complained that, although it was said there was to be an improvement in the teachers' incomes, theirs were really reduced. These complaints are being dealt with. It appears that the cases requiring the greatest amount of adjustment are chiefly those in which the teachers had been in the habit of charging higher fees than they were entitled to collect. It is intended to deal with the cases in a spirit of justice, on a basis which will give substantial compensation where it is shown the teacher has been made to suffer unfairly by the operation of the new regulations.

The Rifle Association of Victoria has issued a liberal programme for the Exhibition prize meeting, which will be held in Melbourne towards the end of next month. All the colonies have been invited to send representatives, but the Council of the Rifle Association here not seeing their way clear to take the matter in hand a movement is afoot to send a team to represent the military forces. This was in contemplation some time ago, but action was withheld pending the decision of the association. Application has now, however, been made to the commandant to sanction a meeting of representative officers from all branches of the service, with a view to take preliminary steps to organize a team. The Victorians are most anxious that this colony should be represented on the occasion, as the following letter from Captain Blannin to Major Richards will show:—"Alfred House, Evelyn-street, 25th August, 1880. My dear Major Richards,—In a letter I lately received from one of your leading riflemen, I was given to understand that you propose if possible to organize a military team to take part in our rifle matches at the end of November, or at any rate to bring over some competitors from Sydney. Our shooting men regret exceedingly that your council has been unable to accept our invitations, but I assure you that any Sydney rifleman attending our Exhibition meeting will be heartily welcome; and in saying that I am sure I am speaking for every member of the V. R. A. A number of matches, amounting in the aggregate to the value of about £450, will be open to our visitors. South Australia and Tasmania have expressed their intention of sending teams, and provision has already been made for receiving their entries. On their arrival in Melbourne, should any of the riflemen of New South Wales desire to take part in these matches, I shall be glad to know how many may be expected, in order that we may provide for them in our time-table. Sincerely hoping we may have the pleasure of meeting a team from your colony,—I remain, &c., A. Blannin, Hon. Sec. V.R.A."

The bowlers selected to play an intercolonial match with Victoria will leave by special train for Melbourne at twenty minutes to two o'clock to-day, and they anticipate reaching their destination in twenty-four hours. Their names are as follows:—Messrs. A. Payten, N. Stewart, C. Cairnes, J. Toohey, T. R. Allt, John Young, T. C. Hinchcliffe, J. Allerton, R. M'Clintock, G. Wickham, A. Tompsitt, T. R. Smith, H. S. Bird, R. Shankland, J. Wilson, J. Cooper, C. Ryan, and H. Broderick: and of these gentlemen Messrs. Payten, Hinchcliffe, Allt, and Tompsitt have been elected captains. A reception committee has been formed in Melbourne to meet them, and they will take up quarters at the Yarra Family Hotel. The match has been fixed to take place on November 5, which will enable them to have a week's practice, and the team will subsequently proceed to Ballarat for a day's play with the club there. Other invitations to play have been forwarded, but it is not yet known whether there will be sufficient time to respond to them.

At the builders and contractors' picnic, which was held at Botany yesterday, between 500 and 600 persons were present—Sir Henry Parkes, M.L.A., Messrs. A. Cameron, T. R. Smith, M.L.A., his Worship the Mayor, and Aldermen Withers, Taylor, John Young, Meeks, and Hordern (who came late in the afternoon), being amongst those present. The hon. the Premier gave utterance to some important statements, which will be found fully reported in another column.

The Presbyterian General Assembly resumed its sittings yesterday under the presidency of the Rev. Henry Macready, the Moderator. A considerable amount of business was transacted, the most important of which was that brought before the Assembly at the evening sederunt. The report of the Church Extension Society, which was submitted and adopted, indicated that a larger measure of progress had been achieved during the past twelve months than in any preceding year in extending the operations of the churches in various directions. Both men and means had been plentiful. A buoyant tone prevailed, and the impression seemed general that the Presbyterian Church was entering upon an era of greater expansion and usefulness.

Yesterday the weather was warm and fine, and though some clouds appeared in the southern sky towards the afternoon, and a few drops of rain fell, there did not seem to be much prospect of a change. In the evening a southerly burster set in, raising clouds of dust. The sky, however, was clear all night.

A meeting of greengrocers, fruiterers, and others affected by the operation of the Hawkers' By-laws, was held, last night, in the Swan with Two Necks Hotel, George-street, Mr. Hunt, greengrocer, in the chair. It was decided that a Dealers' Union Society should be established to protect and defend its members from prosecution through the operation of the said by-laws. Great indignation was expressed by the speakers at what they considered the unjust interference of the Council's officers with themselves and their customers, causing annoyance and loss of trade, &c., to them. The action of the magistrates in sending men to gaol for non-payment of the tax, was declared to be obnoxious and oppressive, and it was decided that efforts should be made to bring about a repeal of the tax. A committee was formed to carry out the objects of the meeting, and the members paid in subscriptions to defray the expenses of an appeal in the Supreme Court against the decision of the magistrate in the next case which should be brought against any of their members.

The Rev. J. Olley, on Tuesday, lectured in the schoolroom of the Congregational Church, in Bourke-street, to the members of the Bourke-street Young Men's Society, on "Language—what is it; and whence comes it?" Mr. Olley commenced at the beginning, and showed that language—the means of communicating ideas and feelings from one man to another—is not made, but is the growth of time, and approaches to perfection in proportion as the people by whom it is used progress in civilization and art; and that, therefore, as there has not been, so there cannot be, a perfect language. The power of speech is the gift of God; but language is the invention of man, to suit the varied circumstances in which he is placed. A cordial vote of thanks was accorded to the lecturer for his interesting and useful lecture.

The third of the series of geographical lectures being given by Mr. F. Bevill, M.A., in connection with the Technical or Working Men's College, attracted a large attendance—nearly the whole of the seats being occupied. Mr. John Macintosh, M.L.A., presided. The lecture was entitled "The Winds and the Waves; or the Highways of the World." Mr. Bevill said that the outset of his subject was the atmosphere, with its constitution and powers. The atmosphere, even in its quiescent state, has great power, bearing a weight of 14½ lbs. upon every square inch; but since that power is exerted on all sides it is not felt. He then went on to describe its functions and powers, the different winds, and what gave them their direction, and the ocean currents, and concluded by explaining fully the characteristics of the most violent storms at sea—viz., the typhoon, the monsoon, the simoon, and several others. The lecture was eloquent, interesting, and instructive, and was frequently applauded. At the conclusion several views, illustrative of the lecture, were shown by means of the triunial lantern, and elicited the approval of the audience. On the motion of Mr. Montague Levey, a very hearty vote of thanks was awarded to Mr. Bevill, who fittingly responded, and the meeting terminated.

Last night Mr. W. Lant Carpenter delivered an interesting lecture to the members of the Royal Society, upon "Daily practical applications of Electricity in America." There was a large attendance of members, the chair being taken by Professor Smith, president of the society. A summary of the lecture will be found in another column. He will lecture in the Masonic Hall, this evening, on "Temperature, and Life in the Ocean Depths." Mr. Carpenter has lectured to crowded audiences in England with great success, and has won a high position in the scientific world, in which his father, the celebrated Dr. Carpenter, has achieved such triumphs. Mr. Justice Windeyer will preside this evening, and the lecture will be illustrated by large diagrams.

The members of the Mount Lachlan Volunteer Fire Company have cause to congratulate themselves on the progress they have made. They have a neat and commodious engine-house with a room attached, and all the appliances necessary for carrying out the objects of their organization are now complete. A resolution was passed at their last meeting for the equipment of the members. An engine has been procured (The Eclipse, of No. 3), pending the completion of a new engine which is now in course of construction by Howe and Rose, engineers, of Regent-street; so that, in the event of fire, notice given to the station No. 7, in Raglan-street, can be promptly met and attended to.

A correspondent writes, asking:—"What is the meaning of the fencing-in of a portion of the open land attached to the Observatory?" and states that it is being done very quickly and noiselessly, as if to escape observation. The answer is, simply, that a portion of the steep side of the hill is being fenced off for planting purposes.

Police-constable Stuve, who for over fifteen years has been residing at Tamworth, and who has received orders to remove to Gunnedah, was yesterday morning presented with a valuable gold watch (suitably inscribed), with appendages, and an address, by the townspeople, as a mark of their esteem and recognition of his efficient services as police officer. The presentation was made at the courthouse.

Complaints are made by persons travelling on the Parramatta River that delays are caused by the length of time taken to open the swing-bridge to allow vessels to pass through. In older countries these swing-bridges are opened and closed in a little over a minute; but here the time taken is stated to be very much greater. Granted that the more modern appliances are not available here, there should at least be all possible expedition used, for the accommodation of travellers by land and by water.

We learn from an English paper that great efforts are making in London to promote the success of the Hospital Saturday Fund. Two hundred ladies have volunteered their services to preside at tables in various parts of the metropolis, and it is hoped that at least 300 stations will be occupied. Local tradesmen and others have also consented, as heretofore, to grant the loan of a table and chair for the use of the lady collectors. To make the fund a greater success this year an entertainment will be given gratuitously, and over 200 professional performers have volunteered their services.

About half-past 8 o'clock yesterday morning, a man whose name is believed to be John Hawkin, lodging at 151, George-street, was found in the water-closet in an unconscious state, and was conveyed instantly to the Infirmary; but on arrival there it was found that life was extinct. He is a man of about 50 years of age, 5 feet 7 or 8 inches in height, of slender build and fair complexion, sandy hair, whiskers, and moustache, shaved on chin, and an old sore between the elbow and wrist of right arm; dressed in brown tweed trousers, Irish frieze vest, thick white flannel drawers, white flannel undershirt, crimson shirt with black spots, woollen socks with red tops, strong blucher laced boots, and soft black felt hat. In his pockets were found a black eather portemonnaie, a pair of small scissors, a brass albert chain, and some needles. It is supposed that deceased had recently arrived from New Zealand, and he had a swag containing a blue blanket, moleskin trousers, white flannel under-shirt, and a striped cotton shirt. These are now at No. 4 police-station, and the police would be glad of any information concerning him.

A man named Thomas Watson was taken to the Infirmary, yesterday, suffering from injury to both eyes, occasioned by the bursting of a pipe, through which a quantity of boiling resin was cast upon them.

If the following statement, made by the Ballarat correspondent of the Argus, is reliable, political liberty in Victoria is a myth:—"It has been more than surmised for a long time that a most detestable system of espionage has been encouraged, if not established, on Ballarat by the radical party, and a case has just been reported to me which will go a long way to prove the fact. After the passing of the Local Government Act, some five or six years ago, Mr. John Alfred Chalk was one of the first batch of Government auditors appointed under it, and he has been reappointed annually ever since till now. In January or February last he attended a meeting of the constitutional party at Craig's Hotel. After the meeting one of the radical party met him in the bar of the hotel, and asked where he had been. He replied, 'At the meeting up-stairs.' The man said, 'You had no business there.' Mr. Chalk told him rather impolitely to mind his own business. He then asked Mr. Chalk, 'Do you know what attending that meeting will cost you?' 'No,' was the reply, which was followed by the man saying, 'It will cost you all your Government appointments.' Mr. Chalk only laughed at him, but the fellow had told the truth; at least it looks very like it, for Mr. Chalk has been dismissed, and Mr. W. Thompson, late secretary of the old Ballarat Water Commission, has been appointed to the three auditorships held by him. If there be any other cause for the Government dismissing one of the most efficient of our auditors, Mr. Chalk is in entire ignorance of it."

Can it be true (observes the London Echo), as stated, that the real reason why the trip of the Prince of Wales to Australia has been abandoned is that the financial difficulty cannot be got over? An expedition of the kind would cost much money. The heir-apparent can scarcely be expected to provide it—for much of the income allowed him is already spent in vicarious work; Parliament could not be asked for it—its grant for State ceremonial is already overmuch.

The action brought by Mr. J. M'Intyre against the proprietors of the Age newspaper for libel (says the Argus) was concluded at the Sandhurst Assize Court on Saturday. The plaintiff complained that in an article headed "Facts for the Electors," published on the 12th and also on the 13th July last, immediately preceding the general election, appeared a statement that the Service Ministry "bought" Mr. M'Intyre by an appointment for his son. The appointment referred to was that of secretary to the Royal Commission on the Judicature Bill, and it was urged for the plaintiff that the paragraph meant that there had been a corrupt bargain, by which, in consideration of the appointment of the son, the father should support the Ministry. For the defence it was argued that it meant nothing of the sort, and that there was no attack on Mr. M'Intyre; but that the article was an attack on the Service Ministry, that there was no allegation that the plaintiff had acted corruptly, and that what was said was only a fair comment on a public transaction—a comment written at a time of great political excitement. The jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff, damages £150.

Melbourne must be a particularly dangerous place just now after nightfall, as we learn from the Telegraph of Monday that two cases of robbery by garroting occurred in the most central part of that city on Saturday evening last. They are thus described:—"Two aggravated cases of garroting occurred on Saturday evening, and in each instance the victim was robbed of money and valuables by his assailants, who were of the larrikin fraternity. The first case was that of a man named Richard Gough, who, while in the vicinity of the corner of Little Bourke and Stephen streets, was attacked, knocked down, and eased of two sovereigns and a watch. Another individual, named George Candy, was accosted by a female at the corner of King and Bourke streets, at a later hour, and while he was conversing with her several young men came up and knocked him down, and then robbed him of his watch and chain and eight guineas." A third was a desperate attempt by the two men who lately escaped from Pentridge to rob a Mr. Notman near the Victoria Market. As he was proceeding on his way home about 8 o'clock, he was stopped by two men, who asked him for money. On his refusing to accede to the demand, one of them struck him on the back of the head with a piece of iron piping, weighing about 8 lbs., and hurt him severely. Notman was made of good stuff, however, and turned pluckily upon his assailant, and after a struggle wrested the weapon from him and hit him in return upon the head, disabling him to some extent. At the same time Notman called for assistance, and was answered by several persons, who hastened to the scene. One of the marauders then ran away, but the chief offender was secured, and found by detective Kidney, who happened to be in the locality, and at once arrested him, to be identical with Jewell, the Pentridge escapee. When searched at the watch-house a large quantity of pepper was found upon him, it being intended, the detective concluded, for throwing in the face of people whom he intended to assault.

We learn from the Western Advocate that a circular has been addressed to the benches of magistrates from the department of the Minister for Justice, drawing attention to the custom of allowing the use of the courthouses for various purposes, and desiring that the practice should be discontinued, and that in future it would be better to refrain from granting the use of the courthouses for any other purpose than the administration of justice. The following circular is supposed to convey the instructions to be adhered to:—"Department of Justice and Public Instruction, Sydney, May 3rd, 1875.—Gentlemen,—The practice of magistrates granting singly the use of courthouses for meetings, entertainments, &c., having been in some instances exercised improperly, and the furniture and fittings of courthouses having frequently been damaged by parties having the use of the same—I am directed by the Minister for Justice and Public Instruction to state, that in future the use of the courthouse should only be granted in Petty Sessions, in the same way as permission is granted to publicans to have music and dancing in their licensed houses, as set forth in section 35 of 25 Vic., No. 14.—I am, &c., W. E. Plunkett, Under-Secretary."

It is not generally known (says the Yass Courier) that the mopoke feeds largely on centipedes. The other day one of these birds was shot on the Yass River, near town, and its crop was found to be packed full of centipedes.

With regard to the influx of Chinese in the Northern Territory, the South Australian Register says:—"The Government have become fully sensible of the wisdom of taking some action to check the influx of Chinese into the Northern Territory; accordingly, they have reintroduced the bill brought in a short time back by Mr. Bray, with such alterations as make it applicable to the Northern Territory only. Every Chinaman entering the Northern Territory will be required to pay a poll-tax of £10. No provision is made for his returning without a second payment in the event of his once leaving the Territory, it being considered unnecessary, as the case supposed is not very likely to arise. One or two members were very anxious that a clause should be inserted requiring a Chinaman to produce his certificate of payment whenever it was demanded by a properly authorized official. It was pointed out, however, that such a course would be very inexpedient and very unjust."

THE DUKE OF MANCHESTER IN THE WEST.

[By Telegraph.]

(From our own correspondents.)

DUBBO, Wednesday.

The banquet to the Duke of Manchester last night was a great success; over 50 persons sat down. The Mayor (Mr. Taylor) occupied the chair, and the Police Magistrate (Mr. Norton) the vice-chair. Supporting the chairman were the Duke of Manchester, Mr. Lackey, and Sir P. A. Jennings, K.C.M.G. All the leading people of the town were present, and the district was also well represented; Mr. Maher, of Narramine, Mr. Baird, of Dundullimal, Mr. Smith, of Cambooglе and Cumbong, among others, being present. The health of the Duke was enthusiastically received, and his Grace replied, stating that the country he had passed through fairly surprised him. In his travels he had seen land which for richness of soil he had only seen equalled on the plains of Naples, under Mount Vesuvius. He had received a most hearty greeting, and if he had been a monarch the people of Dubbo could not have done more for him. He would take home with him the most pleasing recollections of Australia, and he would be able to state that the progress made by the colonies was as astonishing as it was delighting. He spoke of federation, and the probability that in the future Australia as well as other colonies would take part in the councils of the Empire. He proposed "Prosperity to Dubbo," and the Mayor responded. Mr. Morgan proposed "The Parliament and the Ministry;" and Mr Lackey, in responding, referred to the work of Parliament in the past, and the many creditable measures it had passed during the last session. Referring to federation, he said he believed in it; but, as a condition precedent, there should be a uniformity of tariffs. He instanced the variation in railway gauges already existing as showing that there was a necessity for something like agreement among the colonies. The Ministry had endeavoured to do what was beneficial for the country, and if they had not succeeded in any degree they had not failed for want of good intentions. Mr. Fitzhardinge proposed "The Pastoral, Agricultural, and Commercial Interests;" to which Messrs. Smith, Maher, Roper, and Docker replied. Mr. C. H. Fitzgerald proposed "The Visitors," coupled with the name of Sir P. A. Jennings (to whom the Duke paid a high compliment). Sir P. A. Jennings replied very felicitously. The other toasts incidental to such dinners followed; and the banquet, which was on all sides pronounced one of the most successful ever held in Dubbo, ended about 11 o'clock.

The Duke christened the fire-engine this morning, and afterwards visited the schools, hospital, &c. The Minister for Works received several deputations. The party left at 11 for Wellington, and thence to Bathurst by special train.

WELLINGTON, Wednesday.

His Grace the Duke of Manchester, accompanied by the Hon. J. Lackey and Sir Patrick Jennings, reached Wellington a little before 2 o'clock this afternoon. They travelled along the Dubbo line, a railway carriage having crossed the bridge for their accommodation yesterday. No fuss was made, and no address was presented. One or two introductions were made, and the distinguished visitors left in about an hour by special train for Bathurst.

BATHURST, Wednesday.

The Duke of Manchester, accompanied by the Hon. J. Lackey (Minister for Works) and Sir P. A. Jennings, arrived here to-day, shortly after 5 o'clock. It had been intimated that the party would not reach Bathurst till 6 o'clock, and the address from the Municipal Council was, therefore, not presented at the station, as arranged. However, his Grace was received by the Hon. F. B. Suttor, Postmaster-General, and driven to the Royal Hotel. There an address of welcome was read and presented to the Duke by the Mayor, Mr. T. H. Hellyer, on behalf of the Borough Council. His Grace thanked his worship for the address, and said he would like time to enable him to give a proper reply, which was, therefore, deferred to a later to a later hour. The Duke will be the guest of Mr. Suttor during his visit, which will only extend until to-morrow.

A grand banquet was given this evening at the Royal Hotel, the Mayor presiding. About forty gentlemen were present, including Judge Dowling, Sir P. A. Jennings, Sir George Innes (Attorney-General), the Hon. John Lackey, the Hon. F. B. Suttor, the Bishop of Bathurst, Mr. E. Webb, M.L.A., the barristers on circuit, and the leading residents of the district. Only the usual loyal toasts, and that of the guest of the evening, were proposed. The Duke responded to the latter toast briefly, but eloquently. The banquet was a great success.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—My attention having been called to a letter in this day's Herald, signed "John M'Elhone," who, I presume, is one of the Aldermen for Fitzroy Ward, I beg you will do me the justice by inserting this letter in contradiction of an assertion made by that gentleman with reference to our much-respected ex-Mayor and some brother Aldermen, for whom, it is alleged, he had a lane formed and macadamized. Mr. Alderman Hardie, who, like myself, resides near Rosebank-street, will probably deny the accusation, so far as he is concerned, and for myself I deny the imputation absolutely that I had a lane formed for my own special use, which the insinuation infers, leading from my back door to my stables. Since I have held the responsible position of Alderman I have worked hard and faithfully for the citizens. At my instigation a great many streets and lanes have been put into perfect repair which were previously neglected and a disgrace; but I can safely aver that I have not spent one shilling of the citizens' money in the manner insinuated by your correspondent. Previous to Mr. Alderman Roberts leaving office as Mayor the City Surveyor inspected and certified for the necessity of repairing a lane leading into Rosebank-street, and some old metal was accordingly placed on the lane, which before was a perfect bog, and useless as a thoroughfare. As a matter of fact my back door is about 80 feet from this lane, and my stables are about 250 feet from where the old metal terminates; the lane in front of my stables, and for a considerable distance on either side, was made and paid for by the late Mr. Mitchell, from whose estate I purchased it. I am, &c.,

Poisoned Ham and Herrings.—The French police authorities have forbidden the sale of imported hams known in the trade as "Cincinnati." The yellow material in which they are sewn is coloured with a chromate of lead. It is also said that they frequently contain trichinæ. It has been found, too, that the golden hue, so appreciated by amateurs, of "bloaters," is often imparted to them artificially by purveyors of this delicacy. Analysis has revealed here again the presence of one of the most poisonous chromates.

ARMIDALE.

Wednesday.

George Bradshaw, alias Geoffrey Davies, was charged at the Police Court with being implicated in the Quirindi bank robbery. After a great deal of evidence, the accused was remanded to Gunnedah and Quirindi for identification.

The weather has been very cold, and heavy rains have fallen during the past week.

Lambing is nearly finished. With few exceptions, the increase is much below the average. Want of grass, and the cold and rain, have killed thousands of lambs in New England.

The country now looks splendid, and stock are fast recovering from the effects of the severe winter. Wheat and hay crops promise well.

BATHURST.

Wednesday.

The trial of Kong Gee, for murdering a fellow-countryman near Rockley, has occupied the Circuit Court the whole of the day, and the jury are now (9 p.m.) considering their verdict.

CARCOAR.

Wednesday.

Callan, M'Donald, and party have opened a new reef, situated on the opposite side of the Old Cornishman's Reef, at the Junction. From a trial crushing by hand of 5 lbs. of quartz, which was taken from the surface, 1 dwt. 19 grs. was realized. The owners are now erecting a water-wheel and battery for crushing. George W. Townsend lately opened a reef situated on Bungaroo station. He has found specimens which have given encouragement to erect crushing machinery on the ground, which Mr. Townsend has just purchased. The shaft is down 60 feet, and the reef looks well. A great many leases have been taken up at Milburn Creek this week.

TEMORA.

Wednesday.

The trial washing of ten loads of King Maoris claim, Grecian Bend lead, went over one ounce to the load. Number 2 South Maniac, frontage lead, struck gold yesterday.

There is a great rush for quartz claims since the results of the Hope Reef borings have become known. The reefs are attracting attention amongst the capitalists of Sydney and Ballarat, of whom there are a few now inspecting the various claims.

TAREE.

Wednesday.

Another frightful accident has occurred at Breckenridge's sawmills, Forster, resulting in the death of an employé named Joseph Tollhurst, aged 18. From the evidence adduced at the magisterial inquiry on Tuesday it appears that the deceased was engaged below, putting on the belt, when his foot slipped and he became entangled in the machinery. When he was taken up he was quite dead. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Wednesday.

In the Assembly this afternoon the plans for the Burrum railway were laid on the table; the Cedar Duty Bill and the Customs Duties Bill were read a third time; the vote of £100,000 on account was passed; and the Treasury Bills Bill passed through committee. The Council to-night passed the second reading of the Pacific Islanders Bill by 16 to 3.

Whilst Warhawk was training this morning the saddle slipped round, and the boy was unseated. The horse bolted, and cut himself somewhat on a heap of broken glass. It is hoped that the accident will not prevent the horse starting for his engagements.

The recent storms on the Downs caused no injury to wheat. In the vicinity of Warwick there is no sign of rust, and the prospects are improving daily.

The cruiser Renard has arrived at Cooktown, and reports the massacre of eight men, forming the crew of the ketch Borealis, at Mailetan, near Solomon Islands, early in September. The vessel was afterwards recovered by other traders. The man whose hand was blown off on board the Renard is named George Freeman, and it appears that he was dynamite fishing.

An application was made this morning to the Minister for Mines for the use of the diamond drill to bore for coal at Williamstown, as a belief exists that coal will be found there. It is stated that a large quantity of coal exists at Kilcunda, and is only awaiting facilities for transmission to Melbourne.

A presentation was made to-day to Mr. F. R. Kendall on his departure from the colony. A cheque was handed to him for the purchase of a silver tea service in London.

A number of foreign Commissioners and others were entertained to-day by the City Council of Sandhurst. No Ministers were present.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Wednesday.

In the Council, to-day, the Chinese Bill and the Parliamentary Salaries Bill were thrown out. The Northern Territory Sugar Cultivation Bill was passed, and important amendments were made in committee. The amount of land to be dealt with under each contract is fixed at 10,000 acres all round, instead of varying amounts to different concessionaries. The total area to be set apart is raised from 70,000 to 100,000 acres.

The Assembly has resolved that the site of the new cemetery should be connected with the city by rail. The Treasurer expressed deep regret to the House at the intended retirement of the Speaker from ill-health. His remarks were received with hearty cheering. Other members testified their high feelings for Sir G. S. Kingston. Mr. Bray indignantly referred to the report he had heard that the Government had been advised not to assent to his bill for the extension of the jurisdiction of the local courts, because it gave no right of appeal to the Privy Council in cases in which £500 was involved. He suggested that the Governor should send down a message reducing the amount, and moved the suspension of the Standing Orders, in order to move that it was desirable that the Bill should become law, with any amendment necessary. The Treasurer said the law officers had no option but to advise His Excellency to reserve his assent to the Bill, for the reason Mr. Bray mentioned. Great surprise and displeasure was expressed in the course of the debate at the action of the Governor, whose conduct was very warmly commented on, in using the power he possessed after the passing of the Appropriation Bill. It was hinted that the action arose from jealousy, the Attorney-General not being able to carry his scheme of land reform; though others said they were sure the necessity for reserving the bill had not occurred to him. The motion for the suspension of the Standing Orders was carried by a majority of fourteen, but the Speaker said that that not being an absolute majority, the question was lost. On the threat of the House not to proceed further with the business, the Treasurer promised to consult the Chief Secretary, and endeavour to get a message reducing the amount within the jurisdiction of the Courts to £400 and granting an appeal. The House did not insist on disagreeing with the Council's amendments in the Licensed Victuallers Bill, which leaves Sunday closing as at present, with local option. The House adjourned till half-past 11 o'clock to-morrow.

Three steamers left to-day for Melbourne, taking about four hundred passengers, including the Colonial Treasurer, and other members of Parliament.

At the quarterly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to-day, a letter was read from the Melbourne Chamber of Commerce, requesting its co-operation in regard to a Postal Union Conference.

The test firing for places in the South Australian team to compete in the international match takes place to-morrow. Forty-six members of the local military force, and twenty-seven of the National Rifle Association compete. Fifteen will be picked from the highest scorers.

The rifle competition for a prize of £50, offered by Major Lovely to the members of the National Rifle Association, was fired to-day at Fulham range. The Strathalbyn Company won the chief prize.

THE VICTORIAN PARLIAMENT.

[By Telegraph.]

(From our own correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Wednesday.

In the Assembly, this afternoon, Sir Bryan O'Loghlen submitted a point of order, that the Estimates now before the Assembly are illegal, and ought to be removed. He said that the Civil Service Act provides a special appropriation, so far as salaries paid under it are concerned. Salaries can only be touched by an amending Act, or by message from the Governor recommending the adoption of a new scale, and a mere Gazette notice is insufficient. Mr. Kerferd was also with the hon. member, and asserted that the Appropriation Act cannot be made to repeal another Act. He contended, however, that this was a wrong time to bring the matter forward, as there was no opportunity of discussing it. The Speaker also objected to being taken by surprise; and Sir Bryan gave notice that he would again bring the matter forward on going into Committee of Supply. Mr. Murray Smith asked a question as to the reinstatement of Benjamin Berry, and the appointment of Graham Berry, jun., to a clerkship in the Treasury. The Premier admitted that the appointments had been made, and justified them. Benjamin Berry had long been performing the duties of a fourth-class officer, and his promotion was not outside the law. Mr. Service attacked the Premier for appointing his own sons at a time when others in the Civil service were being dismissed. And as to Benjamin Berry being a person of known ability, it was alleged he had twice failed to pass the Civil service examination. The appointment, was not only a great injustice to all the fifth-class officers, but was also outside the law. Major Smith, who accepted all the responsibility, regarded the discussion as a mere storm in a teacup, and said the appointment had been merely used as a political handle. He enumerated Benjamin Berry's duties and accomplishments, and expressed surprise that the matter had ever been brought forward. The debate resulted in nothing. The motion for adjournment having been negatived, the bills for the protection of the revenue in the matter of excise duties on beer and tobacco were dealt with. That on tobacco was taken first, and caused a lively discussion. The owners of every tobacco factory are to pay a fee, not to exceed £250 per annum, this being the estimated salary of the Customs' officer in charge. Every person who grows tobacco must register his name, and supply particulars of his crop. The retail dealers the Government proposed should pay a fee of £1, but this was strongly objected to, and reduced to 5s. Mr. Bent protested strongly against the arbitrary enactments, and objected to the bill passing through all its stages; but the Speaker said the issue was so grave that he would take upon himself the unusual course of putting the question. The bill was then passed through all its stages. The Beer Bill was advanced to the third reading. Both bills come into operation on the 1st of November. Mr. Berry, in the course of his remarks on the appointment of Graham Berry, jun., said that he found the time was unfortunate, and that Graham Berry had resigned.

It is said that in the event of the Beer and Tobacco Duties Bills becoming law, the Commissioner of Customs will be enabled to re-employ some of the officials recently dismissed.

YACHT RACES AND STARTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Now that the yachting season is setting in, may I call the attention of the various regatta committees to the absurdity of adhering to the very ancient idea of starting sailing races from moorings. Having had some experience, may I point out some of the many objections to this old style? A yacht has to bring a dingy laden with warps and a heavy anchor to the scene of action. Arriving there, the starter hears no end of grumbling about the position he gives the respective boats, and the chances are that when satisfactorily placed (a thing which rarely happens) one or two will commence dragging their anchors and delay the start; getting away, there is almost sure to be some fouling, and finally the boats leave with their head sails half-up, sitting like pudding bags. These, however, are trifles compared with what is to come. The race is sailed, and the dingy if not run down is found at the moorings, and the next treat in store is that a crew who have already done a hard day's work—perhaps all gentlemen amateurs—have to haul in thirty or forty fathoms of coir rope, covered with filthy mud, and lift a heavy anchor, messing their clothes and destroying the jib and foresail of the yacht.

These are some of the disadvantages. Can any one, looker on or yacht owner, tell me what are the advantages?

Let any one go through Hunt's Yachting Magazine, or the Field, and he will find that for the last five or six years, such a thing as fixed starts have ceased to exist, and flying starts have taken their place there, as they should here. By doing so, the general public will have an opportunity of seeing a much prettier sight, and yachtsmen a much pleasanter time of it.

October 27. J. H. WANT.

Anæsthetics in 1651.—In a recent work, entitled "Histoire de la Médecine à Troyes," Dr. Guichet relates that the College of Physicians of that town brought an action against a certain Nicolas Bailli for administering internal remedies to his patients and putting them to sleep. In defence Bailli declared that having observed that in great operations, amputations, incisions, actual and potential cauterisations, many patients slipped through his hands for want of sleep, he had studied the secrets of nature, and had at last found a cordial, or marvellous essence, which put them to sleep softly, and appeased their sensibility to pain.

CARLTON V. COMBINED BANKS.—A one-day match between the Carlton Club and an eleven selected from the Banks of the metropolis took place yesterday, on the Association Ground, and resulted in a victory for the Carltons by 51 runs. Mr. Cape (Banks), and Mr. Geary (Carltons), the respective captains, having tossed for choice of innings, fortune favoured the latter, who sent in Callachor and C. Bannerman to the bowling of J. Docker and Rotton. The first named batsman soon succumbed to Docker, but M'Crea and Bannerman made a long stand, and before they were separated the score had been increased to 51, when Bannerman made a high hit to long field-on, and was splendidly caught by Rotton. The retiring batsman scored 30 by steady play, with an occasional dash of his old vigour, and he appears to be getting rapidly into his true form. Upon Bannerman's retirement, Jones joined M'Crae, and when the score had been increased to 81, M'Crea, after a really good innings, was bowled by Docker. Geary succeeded him, and another stand was made. J. Docker, who was bowling extremely well, failed to dislodge the batsmen, and Eury was equally unsuccessful. Several changes in bowling were tried, and it was not until 124 runs had been scored that the desired separation was effected. Jones, after a good defensive innings for 23, played softly to short leg and was caught out. Davis, who followed him, did not trouble the scorers; but Wearne proved a much more difficult wicket to get. Runs came pretty freely, and at 140 Geary tried to send Moses to the fence, and was clean bowled. Wearne, after a free innings for 14, was bowled by Holden; and the only other batsman who made a stand was Maloney, who, when things were getting monotonous, enlivened the proceedings by making several good hits to the fence. The innings closed for a fine total of 181. The bowling (particularly that of J. Docker) was good, and the fielding as a whole is also worthy of notice. Shortly before 4 o'clock the Carltons went into the field, and Cape sent in Seale and Moses to bat; but after 25 runs had been scored Seale was run out. Massie and Moses then got together, and made a long stand, both men batting freely and well. Moses, after scoring 22, was run out, and Massie contributed 63 (ten hits for four each) when he was caught out. The remaining batsmen gave very little trouble, and the innings terminated for a total of 130 runs. The following are the complete scores:—

The abovenamed players are requested to assemble on the Association Ground every Monday and Friday. The absence from the above list of the name of Mr. Coates will surprise many people, but it is understood that the University bowler will not be able to play.

On Saturday last the 2nd elevens of the Warwick and Petersham Clubs met, on the Petersham Cricket Ground, and after an exciting contest the Petersham Club managed to secure a victory by one run. Owing to the effective bowling of both sides, the scores made were extremely small, the Petersham team making 36 to their opponents' 35 runs, none of the batsmen on either side reaching double figures. For Petersham Sam. Golding and Dawes divided the bowling honours, while Austin and Downes bowled well for the Warwick Club.

THE NIMROD FISHING CLUB.

The Nimrod Fishing Club held their annual picnic, yesterday, at Smith's Pavilion, Botany, and anything more enjoyable of its kind could scarcely be imagined. Fine sunny weather prevailed from first to last, the roads were in excellent condition, and the vegetation generally, and the gardens particularly, put forth their brightest attractions. A procession of omnibuses was formed at half-past 10 o'clock in Wynyard-square, each vehicle bearing union-jacks, or ensigns, and the foremost carrying the Young Australian band. The grounds were reached shortly before noon, when a movement was made to Mr. Elliot's oyster stall, and the refreshment tables. Dancing and outdoor sports were engaged in until two o'clock, when the company, numbering 300, proceeded to the banquetting room, which, with the pavilion, had been tastefully decorated with festoons of evergreens, flowers, and groups of ensigns, by Mr. A. Torning. The chair was occupied by the Mayor of Sydney, and seated near him were were the Hon. George Thornton, Messrs. John Davies, D. O'Connor, A. Cameron, T. R. Smith, M.L.A., and Alderman Hordern and Meeks. The loyal toasts were proposed by the Mayor, and enthusiastically honoured. Mr. Thornton next proposed "Success to the Club," and in doing so dwelt briefly upon the attractiveness of the gentle sport. Mr. J. J. Yeend suitably replied. Other complimentary toasts were drunk, after which a presentation of prizes took place. Mr. John. Rogers, the secretary, received a gold medal for his services, and Messrs. Eastway and Clamp respectively, a silver mug and a coffee pot for piscatorial achievements over their fellow members. Mr. F. Bevill then said he had a very pleasing duty to perform, which was to take advantage of the occasion to present Mr. Rogers with a gold watch and chain, as marks of esteem from some friends otherwise than those connected with the club. In making the presentation he spoke in graceful words of the recipient's courtesy and genial demeanour, and Mr. Rogers acknowledged the gift with many thanks. Festivities were resumed and indulged in until dusk, when the return home took place.

AMUSEMENTS.

The attendance at the Theatre Royal last night was smaller than usual, a fact perhaps due to a desire on the part of the public to have a change of programme. Albery's drama of "The Two Roses" was repeated, and, of course, ran with the facility which the practised intelligence of the London Comedy Company ensures for all their productions. At the Opera House "Good as Gold" was repeated before a tolerably numerous audience and its salient features were freely applauded. At the Queen's Theatre, "Oliver Twist" was repeated with the usual cast, and drew together a large number of persons. Miss Pomeroy, who has assumed a great variety of characters here, and took that of Nancy Sykes last night, will appear as Juliet this evening. To-morrow, when she makes her final appearance, she will have a benefit, and "Heartsease"—a novelty here—will be presented. The panorama of the Russo-Turkish war was fairly attended last night.

The third concert of the Civil Service Musical Society's thirteenth season was given at the Masonic Hall last evening, under the conductorship of Signor Giorza. There was a very large audience, and the members of this audience signified unequivocally their approval of the music selected to form the programme, and of the manner in which it was given. The principal item was the Opera di Camera of "Norma," in which most of the gems of song so dear to opera-goers were preserved. The opening recitative and chorus by Oroveso and the Druids was followed by Pollio's cavatina, and after the chorus of Druids and vestals came the glorious invocation, "Casta Diva." Then came the trio between Norma, Adalgisa, and Pollio; the famous duet, "Deh, con te; Oroveso's aria, "Ah! del Tebro;" the "Guerra! guerra!" chorus; the duet between Norma and her betrayer, "Qual cor tradiste," and the finale by Norma and the chorus. The whole was sung in about an hour and a-half. At a late hour the orchestra was weakened by the defection of five members of the Headquarters band; but, spite of this, Signor Giorza used his materials so judiciously that the difficult orchestral music of the opera was not spoiled, and as the vocalists sang well, this first part of the programme was unusually successful. Miss Moon sang "Casta Diva," the Norma part in "Deh, con te," and the recitative in "Guerra," and sang them with a richness of flexible voice, and a correctness of expression which can scarcely be too highly commended. The Oroveso, too, was Mr. John Bushelle, who has just returned to Sydney from England, with his noble voice as well under control and in as good condition as ever. The Pollio music was allotted to two tenors, of whom the one who sang the cavatina did so with an evident appreciation of its beauty. Of the choruses, those best sung were the opening one and the war chorus, and the performance was, as a whole, creditable to those who took part in it. The second part of the concert consisted of a mélange, in which the most noticeable item was a soprano duet by Signor Giorza. It is called "Lezione di Danza," and written in dance time, the melody being an airy, sprightly theme, to which one's feet instinctively keeps time, and which rings in the memory long after its sounds have died away. In spite of a rule to the contrary, the audience insisted on a repetition of this. Mr. Hodge played a saxophone solo excellently, and some one else gave a cornet solo fairly well. The "Grenadiers' chorus," from Meyerbeer's "L'Etoile du Nord," was performed by chorus and band with such a jolly swing that we anticipate with pleasure the performance of the opera which the society is soon to give. Mr. C. B. Foster was accompanist, and Mr. S. M. Mowle, the hon. secretary, probably deserves the credit of seeing that the stage was tastefully decorated, and that the arrangements were generally good.

Mr. Fisher's Australian cantata, "The Emigrants," will be repeated in the School Hall, Petersham, on Friday evening. Judging from the success which attended its first production on Thursday evening last, it may fairly be anticipated that the performers being freed from the nervousness of their first appearance in a new work, will then render it with increased interest and effect.

A concert was given in the Oddfellows' Hall, Queen-street, last night, in aid of the funds of the Woollahra Volunteer Fire Brigade, and the entertainment was very extensively patronised. The programme, which was lengthy and varied, afforded unqualified amusement, and was listened to with marked interest and attention. Many of the numbers were encored, Mr. Ackland's ballads being particularly well appreciated. Messrs. Crisp and Marshall's comic singing was also a popular feature in the entertainment.

DAILY PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS OF ELECTRICITY IN AMERICA.

A lecture, bearing the above title, was delivered last night to the members of the Royal Society of New South Wales, by Mr. W. Lant Carpenter, B.A., B.Sc., F.C.S. There was a good attendance, the chair being occupied by Professor Smith, president of the Society, who introduced the lecturer in a few well chosen words.

MR. CARPENTER began by saying that what he had to say might be considered as hardly suitable for the dignity of the Royal Society, as it was merely calling attention to what had been done in America. He had last year travelled through the United States and Canada, under very favourable circumstances; and he had, perhaps, seen more than the ordinary traveller would do. He began his lecture by referring to the two methods of exciting the electrical fluid, the chemical method, and the method in which the electricity was derived from magnetism. These were both largely employed, although nearly all the practical applications in America were those in which both electricity and magnetism were conjoined. If they took a circuit of copper wire, of moderate length, and introduced a fine wire insufficient to convey the current which was passing, the electricity heated it red hot. This method of exciting heat was employed for firing mines. The largest explosion ever made by this method was at Hell's Gate, near New York, in the channel between Long Island and the main land. The rocks in the sound had been blown up some three years ago, in order to fit the channel for ocean steamers. He described how the effect was produced—the pressure of a key putting a number of batteries into operation by drawing bolts which allowed the metals to fall into the exciting fluids, and thus completing the number of circuits requisite to fire the mine. The soft iron horse shoe magnet experiment was shown in order to prove the connection between electricity and magnetism, a 56-lb. weight being suspended directly the circuit was completed, and dropping as soon as it was again broken. He showed how this principle was applied to the electric bell, describing the construction of these bells, which were, he stated, very largely used in America. The manner in which the electro-magnet was applied to watchmen's clocks was shown on the blackboard, and it was pointed out that this was a very simple manifestation of the electrical processes. The time lock was next referred to. This was a lock which could only be opened at a particular time of the day, and electricity was brought to bear to prevent any accident arising from the clockwork stopping, by applying electro-magnets to the pendulum. The lecturer then described the fire alarm system, which was so widely adopted in the cities of the United States. This system was most complete, the pulling of a handle at once ringing an alarm and showing the district in which the alarm was given. The system was invented by a nephew of the late Dr. Channing, who brought it before the Municipal Council of Boston. They spent a great many thousand dollars in experimenting with it; and so great was the success achieved that it was immediately adopted, not only in Boston, but in nearly every city in the Union. In New York there was an automatic fire alarm system, in which the fire was made to signal itself in places which were properly arranged; the heating of the atmosphere by expanding a spiral spring completing the necessary circuit, and ringing the alarm. He had seen some experimental fire drills while in America, and in no case was the time necessary for getting the engines under weigh more than 6 seconds from the time in which the first alarm was given. Some amusing incidents were recorded of the smartness of the men engaged here, and in Chicago, among the fire patrols. Why, then, did they hear of such large fires? In Boston, just at the time of the great fire, there had been a curious disease amongst the horses, entirely unfitting them for work, and the engines were absolutely useless without them; while, in Chicago, the waterworks were amongst the first places to sustain damage. The district telegraph system was next described briefly, and it was shown that it was a most useful contrivance. A short account of the duplex system of telegraphy was given, the lecturer stating that it was quite as well carried out in the Telegraph Office at Sydney as anywhere he saw it in America. The difference between the telegraphic systems of America and England was, that in America one wire was made to do as much work as possible by sending messages in both directions, and comparatively slow instruments were used; whereas in England, where long Press messages had to be sent from one place to a number of others, Wheatstone's fast transmitter was largely used, the signals being transmitted four or five times as fast as was possible by hand. The telephone was then brought under the consideration of those present, the difference between the instruments where the actual waves of sound were conveyed, and those where these waves of sound were converted into vibrations of electricity, and at the other end reconverted into waves of sound, being particularly dwelt upon. The credit of first making an articulating telephone was due to Professor Alexander Graham Bell. His instrument was then fully and clearly described, a section being drawn on the blackboard by which the most ignorant could have been made acquainted with the principle upon which it was constructed. In connection with the telephone, he spoke of the Hughes' microphone, and described its formation, and the principle upon which it was combined with the telephone. The telephone exchange system as adopted in America and in Melbourne was referred to, and described. This system, he stated, was the kind of thing the value of which was hardly known and realized until it had been in operation for some little time. The telephone exchange was first introduced into Buffalo early in 1879, and in less than six months there were more than 1000 subscribers, or one per cent. of the population of the city. The electric light was referred to, and it was pointed out that Edison—who was really an inventing machine—had not had a scientific education, and hence was continually re-inventing things that were perfectly well known to those who were read up in scientific knowledge. He expressed himself as of opinion that the difficulty of subdividing the electric light was not going to be solved as easily as Edison thought. He considered that the moral to be drawn from these applications of science was that they should do all in their power to extend the elements of scientific knowledge amongst all. (Applause.)

Mr. H. C. RUSSELL moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer, and endorsed the remarks made in reference to the desirableness of extending a knowledge of the elements of science, and especially of electricity.

Mr. Justice WINDEYER seconded the resolution, which was carried with acclamation.

BUILDERS AND CONTRACTORS' ASSOCIATION PICNIC.

The eighth annual picnic in connection with the Builders' and Contractors' Association, took place yesterday, at Botany, and proved not a whit less successful than any of the preceding picnics. Between 500 and 600 persons were conveyed in sixteen 'buses, and a large number of private vehicles, from the Town Hall to Correy's Tea Gardens, where games and amusements were immediately began. Dancing was the principal source of amusement; and, for this purpose, the whole of the pavilion was at the disposal of the disciples of Terpsichore, whose "twinkling feet" kept time to the music of the Young Australian Band. At 2 o'clock the bell rang for luncheon, which was served in a large marquée erected for the purpose, at the western end of the pavilion usually allotted to dancing. The tables presented an attractive appearance, and it was evident that host Correy had made special exertions on this occasion. Mr. David Elphinstone, president of the association, occupied the chair, having on his right the Hon. Sir Henry Parkes, K.C.M.G., and on his left Mr. A. Cameron, M.L.A. Amongst the other visitors present were Aldermen Withers, Taylor, John Young, Dean, and Meeks. Mr. Mackay was vice-chairman. After the Chairman had stated that he had received apologies for non-attendance from Mr. John Sutherland, and Aldermen Chapman, Roberts, and Hordern, the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were duly honoured.

Mr. POOLE then proposed "The Ministry of New South Wales." He said that it was now 20 years since it was his good fortune to make the acquaintance of Sir—then Mr.—Henry Parkes, who was then a member of a committee of the House which was engaged in exposing some jobbery and corruption which existed in high places in this city, and from that time to this he had been one of the foremost amongst the representatives of the people, often in the Ministry and always in the House. (Applause.) Though he did not intend to claim for this Ministry all the important changes which had taken place, yet there was no doubt that the two gentlemen who were the backbone of the present Ministry had aided largely in the passing of those measures which had commenced to develop the enormous resources of this country. (Applause.) There was one matter which would live in their memories for many years to come, and that was the Act of all Acts,—providing for public instruction. (Applause.) He considered that, if the Ministry had never done anything else, the passing of this Act alone should recommend them to the country for many years to come. (Applause.) Now this Act had to be protected and enforced, and it would be a part of the duty of the Ministry not only to defend it against its open foes, but against its still more dangerous professed friends. (Applause.) Then there was the Chinese question, the matter of the repudiation running like wildfire through the country, and other questions which had yet to be discussed. Indeed there was a vast amount of work to be done by the new House, and the leaders of the Ministry were the men to do it if properly supported. (Applause.)

Sir HENRY PARKES, who was received with loud applause, responded. He said he was very much obliged to his old friend Mr. Poole for the flattering terms in which he had been pleased to propose this toast. He had said several very complimentary things; and it would not be proper for him (Sir Henry Parkes) to accept them as the simple truth. They must allow something for his exaggeration on an occasion of this kind. (Laughter and applause.) He was very much pleased with the warmth with which they had received the toast of the Ministry; and if he were not a member of the Ministry, he should be also gratified to drink to the Ministry of the day with enthusiasm. In a country like ours, which trusts its fortunes so entirely to Parliamentary government, the Ministry at all times was the reflex of the prevailing opinion in the Parliament for the time being; and, as such, it ought to be held in proper respect. (Applause.) But coming to the existing Ministry, he was more especially gratified; and all he could say in response was, that if any set of men could serve the country the present Ministry were both able and disposed to serve it. (Applause.) He noticed that this gathering was largely composed of ladies,—as far as he could judge, the ladies were in the majority; and if that blessed time had arrived when the majority of Parliament was composed of ladies, he believed the majority would be in favour of the present Ministry (applause and laughter), and that they would be likely to keep the right men in the right place for ever. (Renewed laughter and applause.) With regard to one or two words which fell from Mr. Poole, it would be idle on his (Sir Henry Parkes') part not to admit that there were one or two questions of the highest possible importance which were dealt with during last session, and which were not yet out of sight. (Hear, hear.) The great measure to which he alluded, he meant the Public Instruction Act, was not yet clearly out of the hands of its enemies. (Hear, hear.) Its main provision, for the non-sectarian system of education, had to be decided by a period of two years; and most assuredly if men of uncertain opinion on this question were returned to Parliament, it was not free from danger. (Applause.) He should not have alluded to any of these topics had not Mr. Poole referred to them. He had already said in another place, that no person ought to be returned in the new Assembly who had not made up his mind on this important question of education. (Loud applause.) It was a question, though not simple, yet so clear that any man might know what his opinion was; and as there was no room for doubt or hesitation he ought to be made to declare his opinion. (Applause.) With regard to the other topic to which Mr. Poole had alluded, he meant the remission of the interest to free selectors—the thing that surprised him most was that any number of sane men should think that question deserved an answer. (Loud applause, and a voice "Repudiation.") Besides it was a matter that was not ripe for discussion, that was, unless burglary were ripe for discussion. (Loud applause.) It was a question about which there could be no doubt whatever. (Applause.) It was a surprise to him that persons should bestow so much time upon discussing a question that really did not admit of argument. (Applause.) The remission of the interest simply meant that a class of men who, upon the whole, had been well dealt by should be unrighteously served at the expense of those who had not received the same amount of benefit. (Applause.) With regard to the future, the whole thing rested with the electors of the country. Within a very few weeks—a month or five weeks at the outside—they would live under a new Parliament; and therefore the destinies of the country were now in their hands. Of course, believing as he did, that they were wise men—that was the whole of the electors of the country—he felt persuaded that they would return to Parliament men who would keep the present Government in office. (Laughter and applause.) And perfectly sure was he that if this Parliament is only composed of ladies there would be no doubt whatever upon that point. (Renewed laughter and applause.) The only thing he had to say in conclusion was that he was not selfish in this anticipation; but he thought sincerely that if they wished the interests of the country thoroughly preserved—if they wished the resources of the country thoroughly developed—if they wished for every class in the country to have fair play and no favour—and if they wished this country to attain its rightful place at the head of the Australian colonies—then they would not be in a hurry to give their votes so as to cause a change of Government. (Loud applause.) He thanked them very cordially for the manner in which they had received the toast.

Alderman JOHN YOUNG then proposed "The Parliament of New South Wales," and in doing so said he did not think he could add anything more suitable to the toast than the sentiments already expressed by Sir Henry Parkes; but he was exceedingly glad to see so many ladies and gentlemen present, which was an indication, in some degree, of the prosperity of the colony generally. (Applause.)

Mr. CAMERON responded. He paid a high tribute to the careful and conscientious manner in which the present Parliament had performed its duties during the past session, and said that if the country were only fortunate enough to get such another body of men to study its interests, there would be very little room left for complaint. (Applause.) He did not think the people of this country could afford to give certain measures a fair trial as was stated by some members when speaking of the Education Act. It seemed to him very much like as if those men intended to alter it altogether as soon as they got the chance. (Applause.)

Mr. CARPENTER, J.P., proposed "The Municipal Institutions of the colony," to which Alderman DEAN responded.

Mr. CAMERON proposed, "The Builders and Contractors' Association." It could not be denied that the Builders and Contractors' Association was a very influential and respectable body, and one that could make its influence felt for good or evil. (Applause.) They had reason to be proud of a body of men who could not be surpassed in any of the other colonies for respectability, skill, and indomitable energy, which made them the men they were. (Applause.)

The CHAIRMAN responded, and after referring to the struggles the promoters of the association had to make in the first year of its existence, and the success which had attended their efforts since—as was evidenced by the great gathering there that day—he went on to point out several important benefits which had accrued to the builders and contractors through their being united. He concluded by thanking them sincerely for the hearty manner in which the toast had been honoured.

"The Ladies," "The Press," and "The Chairman" were the remainder of the toasts.

The sports and amusements were then resumed, and kept up till dusk, when the party returned to town in safety, nothing having occurred to mar the general pleasure.

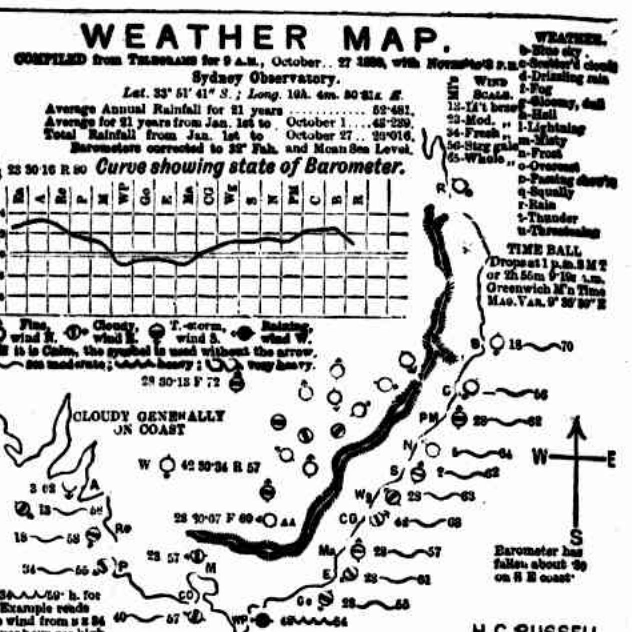

SYDNEY GAS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have for a long time past made daily tests, under strict English conditions, of the gas supplied by the Australian Gas Light Company, and at a station over 1000 yards from the place of manufacture, as required by the English Acts. If you think the following extract from my book for the month of September last, of sufficient interest, will you kindly place it before the public:—Illuminating power (mean of the month) 16·58 candles, maximum 16·93, minimum 16·14; gas consumed at the rate of 5 cubic feet per hour: burners used, Sugg', London, argand No. 1. Impurities: sulphur, 8·4 grains per 100 cubic feet; ammonia, 0·2 grains per 100 cubic feet. Note.—English Parliamentary standard—illuminating power, 16 candles. Impurities:—sulphur, maximum 15 to 20 grains, according to season; ammonia, maximum 4 grains per 100 cubic feet.

Your obedient servant,

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS.

At Lester's Lord Nelson Hotel, Miller's Point, a meeting of the electors of West Sydney was held last night, under the auspices of the League for the Encouragement of Colonial Industries, with a view to promoting the interests in the canvas of Messrs. W. Crispin and Thomas White. Mr. W. Watson occupied the chair, and there was a fair attendance. Mr. Crispin moved, and Mr. White seconded the following resolution:—"That in the opinion of this meeting, in order to foster and encourage native industries, all Government work should be retained in the colony, all goods from foreign prison workshops excluded, and Chinese immigration restricted; and pledges itself not to support any candidate who is opposed to these principles." Messrs. Johnson and Richards supported the resolution, which was agreed to. Reference was made to the views entertained on the subjects embraced in the resolution by other candidates, and the matter was then placed in the hands of the public for decision.

A preliminary meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Alderman Edward Hordern was held last evening at Wadsworth's Emu Inn, Regent-street, when a large number of electors attended. Mr. Richard Shortland was voted to the chair. A committee was formed to act in that part of the electorate to secure Mr. Hordern's return for South Sydney. The chairman introduced Mr. Hordern to the meeting. Mr. Hordern pledged himself to use his best efforts for the electors of South Sydney and the colony generally. Mr. Benjamin Morris proposed, and Mr. S. Warren seconded, and it was carried unanimously,—"That Mr. Alderman Hordern is a fit and proper person to represent the electorate of South Sydney in the forthcoming Parliament." Mr. J. C. Beare supported the resolution, and made special reference to Mr. Hordern's exertions in the Municipal Council; and to the fact that he secured a re-valuation of the properties of the citizens. Votes of thanks were then proposed for the chairman and vice-chairman, and the meeting closed with three cheers for the Queen, and three for the candidate.

A meeting of Mr. Roylance's supporters was held at the Queensland Hotel, Erskine-street, last night. Mr. Crockett was in the chair, and Mr. Roylance himself was present. The secretaries (Messrs. Poole and Dike) intimated that numerous promises of support had been promised, and many influential electors of West Sydney consented to allow their names to be placed on the committee. It was arranged that Mr. Roylance should address the electors at the Trades Union Hotel, on Saturday night next, and at Pyrmont on Thursday following.

In reference to the Bourke electorate, we learn that Mr. O'Shanassy has retired, and that Mr. Russell Barton is the only candidate in the field.

A telegram states that:—"Mr. Humphery addressed the electors of Broughton Creek yesterday. Mr. Henry G. Merton, J.P., was in the chair. A vote of confidence was passed by an overwhelming majority, on the motion of Mr. L. M'Intyre, J.P., seconded by Mr. John Bezzell, J.P. A committee was formed to secure his return."

THE RECENT MEETING AT ORANGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A writer in Monday's Herald comments, I think, rather unfairly on a remark made by me at the late meeting in Orange of the friends and supporters of Mr. Thomas Dalton, that "speaking from strictly selfish motives, I felt he was the man to represent us." If the writer referred to had quoted the very next sentence in my speech, which is as follows, "I admitted a member should not be a mere delegate, but be prepared to sacrifice petty local interests to the public good," it would qualify the purport of this avowal considerably. No less a person than Lord Beaconsfield, in reply to a charge of selfishness levelled against his Government, recently, said "it was the selfishness of patriotism." My patriotism, as Mayor of a small country town, takes this form; for I deem it a special duty to study the material interests of the community where I temporarily preside, leaving matters of national importance to the Legislature and Government of the day. I have, I admit, felt, like most country residents who have paid any attention to public affairs, that the best interests of the country districts are systematically subordinated to the interests of the inhabitants of Sydney, and that unless a country constituency has the good fortune to be represented by a vigilant and energetic member it is almost sure to be neglected by the central Government, and be deprived of its legitimate share of public expenditure in the way of much-needed local improvements.

In proof of this, I beg to direct your attention to the existing railway rates, which favour Sydney so unduly, and which if persisted in will almost annihilate the trade of country storekeepers; these rates enabling Sydney merchants to deliver goods at Wellington for some ten shillings (10s.) a ton less than the Orange storekeepers can deliver the same class of merchandise at the same place.

In further proof of the immense advantage which Sydney possesses over country towns, I may point out the enormous amount of public money expended on the recent questionably-useful International Exhibition; the colossal amount of £700,000 so generously forgiven the Sydney Municipality; the £150,000 voted for the Sydney Town Hall; the frequent cheap excursion railway trips, to induce country people to spend their money in the metropolis; and the proposed outlay of something like a million and a quarter for providing the city of Sydney with a supply of water, while country towns can only be supplied at their own expense.

In defence of my remark, that the metropolitan Press constantly opposes anything for the benefit of the country districts, I must remind you of the prompt resistance made to the recent appeal from the farmers of this district for a perfectly reasonable reduction of the high rates of freight charged on their produce, on the ground that these high freights utterly prevented them from selling such produce at a remunerative price in the Sydney market. In America grain is carried by rail for less than one-fourth of the cost of freight usually charged in this country; and this is done where the railways are in the hands of private companies. Rightly or wrongly, there is a very general impression here that Orange has not had quite fair play from the Herald and other metropolitan journals. In saying so I merely expressed the popular belief as well as my own. In justification of my support of the local candidate, Mr. Thomas Dalton, who happens to disagree with me as to the merits of the Education Act, I reply that I consider that question absolutely and finally settled, and I should regard any attempt of Mr. Dalton, or any other candidate favouring Denominationalism, to disturb this measure in the present state of public opinion as futile as well as foolish, and if I thought for a moment that the election of Mr. Dalton as member for Orange would endanger the success of the Public Instruction Act I would not support him.

I have ventured to reply to your strictures in the belief that they are not a fair comment on the remarks I make on the occasion of the meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Thomas Dalton, and that the context of my speech does not warrant the construction that you put upon it, or justify the criticism it has so unexpectedly evoked. I am, &c.,

JAMES TORPY, Mayor.

The market opened rather under last week's rates, but improved as sales progressed; the closing price being fully equal to last Wednesday's quotations. Best pens of bullocks made £8 10s to £9 10s. 23,000 sheep yarded, being the largest supply for some time. The market was very dull, prices for the best showing a fall of 1s, and for others 1s to 1s 6d. Although the Meat Preserving Company took 9000, a clearance was not effected. Prime shorn merino wethers made 8s 6d.

Messrs. King and Cunningham report 1500 cattle yarded, and market slightly lower. Quotations for prime heavy pens of bullocks, £8 10s to £9 10s, and a few £10; good, £8 10s to £7 10s. We have this week sold 5500 Bundure wethers, and 2300 for Grant and Childe, Chat Sing.

Messrs. Powers, Rutherford, and Co. report 1500 cattle yarded to-day, and prices are ten shillings higher. 24,000 sheep yarded, and the market is dull at a reduction of sixpence to a shilling on all but best merino wethers. We sold 4600 and 1800 outside.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

Mr. Parnell, M.P., commenced the autumnal agitation campaign in Ireland on the 19th instant, when he delivered a speech at a great meeting on the land question at Ennis. Mr. Parnell stated his confident expectation of being able to push the Land Bill next session; and stated that the extent to which the bill would go would be measured by the determination of the people not to pay unjust rents, and to keep a firm grip of their homesteads. He exhorted his hearers not to bid for farms whence others had been ejected.

Cruel outrages upon process-servers and upon landlords and agents who are obnoxious to the Land League continue, and are more frequent than ever in some districts. The law is completely set at defiance unless supported by a strong armed force.

The situation with respect to Eastern affairs is extremely critical, owing to the refusal of the Porte to give orders for the cession of Dulcigno to Montenegro, and conflicts are consequently apprehended, not only between the Montenegrins and Albanians, but also between Turkey and the Powers represented in the combined fleet now off Ragusa.

A small detachment of Riza Pacha's troops holds Dulcigno, while the main body is encamped between the Albanian and Montenegrin forces.

The squadrons representing the various Powers, which constitute the combined fleet assembled off Ragusa, consist altogether of 20 vessels, carrying in the aggregate 136 guns, manned by 7300 men.

Vice-Admiral Seymour assumed the command of the fleet on the 20th instant, and is now at Cettinge arranging with Prince Nikita, of Montenegro, for joint action against the Albanians.

According to the instructions held by the commanders of the several squadrons, Admiral Seymour holds unlimited authority for all operations which are simply of a technical or maritime character, and he is not required to consult his associated admirals regarding any movements he may, within that limit, deem it advisable to signal. In case it should appear requisite to proceed to operations which may involve political consequences, Admiral Seymour must then concert with his colleagues; but neither the English Admiral nor the commanders of squadrons belonging to the other Powers are required to refer to their respective Governments before resolving on whatever course may be expedient as circumstances arise. The only contingency excepted is that of disembarkation. The instructions implicitly state that no men are to be landed from the ships. Should the contingency of bombardment present itself, the question will be submitted to the Commanders in council, under the presidency of the Commander-in-Chief.

Admiral Seymour has summoned Riza Pacha to deliver Dulcigno to Montenegro. The reply of the Pacha is still awaited. In the event of a refusal, it is understood that the Montenegrins will attack the place with the support of the combined squadron.

It is in view of this contingency that Admiral Seymour has gone to Cettinge to arrange joint action with the Prince of Montenegro.

Meanwhile, the Porte has issued two circular notes, protesting against the pressure exercised by the Powers as being a violation of the Sultan's sovereign rights, and disclaiming responsibility for the anarchical agitation which their action may produce in the Mahommedan world.

Council succeeds Council at the Palace, but resistance seems to have been determined on, and the Sultan remains deaf to the remonstrances of Mr. Goschen and other ambassadors, however energetic.

The French Ministerial crisis, resulting in the resignation of M. Freycinet, the Prime Minister, again displays the omnipotence of Gambetta in French politics. M. Freycinet's position has been untenable ever since the delivery of his recent speech at Montauban, wherein he apparently sought to attenuate the rather alarming utterances of Gambetta at Cherbourg. The festivities, just previous to this, alone gave great offence to Gambetta, but Freycinet rendered the breach still wider by announcing a temporizing policy towards non-authorized religious bodies affected by the March decrees. According to these decrees all non-authorized orders would share the fate of the Jesuits unless they regularized their position with the French Government. The orders in question, thinking to divert the storm, issued a declaration affirming, though somewhat vaguely in some respects, their submission to the institutions of the country. This declaration was the result of negotiations between Freycinet and the Vatican; but in accepting it the French Premier exceeded his powers, and aroused the hostility of Gambetta and his party in the Cabinet, who are resolved to carry on war against clericalism à outrance. Mr. Jules Ferry, the present Premier, carried out the expulsion of the Jesuits, and is determined to treat the other orders with no less rigour.

M. de St. Hillaire, the new Minister for Foreign Affairs, was formerly private secretary to M. Thiers, and has never before held office. He is greatly respected as a learned and amiable man, but is not credited with possessing any special aptitude for the position of Foreign Minister in the present difficult circumstances which the Ministry has to deal with. His appointment is, however, not regarded as likely to be a permanent one, but merely as a stop-gap until the Chamber meets.

Trickett and Laycock have received their new boats. Trickett's was built by Jewett, of Dunston-on-Tyne, and pleases him better than any boat he has ever had. It weighs 29 lbs., and is very strong. Trickett will shortly receive another boat on trial from Swaddle and Winship. Trickett's weight to-day is 12 st. 4½ lbs. He feels very well. There is very little betting as yet on either of the races, but what has been done is 6 to 4 against Laycock. Probably 2 to 1 or 3 to 1 will be laid against Trickett, whose form is not liked. There is plenty of money for Hanlan.

LATEST EASTERN INTELLIGENCE.

BOMBAY, Oct. 8.

Despatches from Generals Primrose and Burrowes have been published, but throw little light upon the questions raised in connection with the Maijand disaster. Their meagreness has elicited sharp censure from the Viceroy and Commander-in-Chief.

The statement is confirmed that Lieutenant M'Lean commenced the action by advancing two guns without orders. This is suggested as accounting for Burrowes fighting in an unfavourable position, when better ground might have been chosen close at hand.

General Burrowes states that the men behaved well, with the exception of two companies of Jacob's Rifles, till a critical moment when the native infantry gave way. The cavalry, when called upon to charge, did not obey orders, and after the first yielding on the part of the infantry, the action was speedily irretrievably lost.

From General Primrose's report, it appears that he might have sent General Burrowes' reinforcements on the 23rd July, but for unexplained reasons he did not.

Although the comments of the Commander-in-chief indicate that he does not consider General Primrose free from blame, his chief conclusions appear to be that General Burrowes had to fight a most desperate battle, in which he was vastly overmatched, under most unfavourable circumstances; namely, defective information, the action having been commenced by Lieutenant M'Lean, without authority, by a volley, and fought on ground not deliberately chosen by the General, and with the enemy wholly unreconnoitred.

The 66th Regiment (Europeans), behaved like downright heroes.

General Primrose has been recalled, and is succeeded by General Phayre in the command of Candahar.

OUR MELBOURNE LETTER.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 25.

The Health Department of the Social Science Congress has held nine sittings during the week just past. Including the address of the president, nineteen papers were read, and only three of these were indifferent. The rest were distinguished by care, thoughtfulness, experience, and earnestness. And yet there was only an average of about twenty persons present at each sitting, and of these about half were not members of the Congress, which consists of about a thousand persons, everyone of whom accepted the position to which he or she was elected, with an understood determination to help to work out the purposes of the Congress. Those who specially requested to be put on the Health Department list number about 180, and yet of these, certainly not more that five-and-twenty attended the meetings. The conclusion to be drawn from these facts is, that publicity alone has been the object sought in this movement. The lists having been made public, the end was attained, and they took no further interest in the work. When the project of the Congress was started, and the attraction of novelty was part of the inducement to be present, they came in crowds. But when the business of organization began, it rested with the working few upon whom, invariably, falls the brunt of the business in all social movements demanding self-sacrifice. Very naturally, this indisposition to contribute to the success of the Congress has caused some disappointment in the minds of the workers. For, it is asked, what inducement is there to make personal sacrifices of time and comfort, when those for whom the sacrifices are made show an indifference almost contemptuous? Moreover, it is said, that, after all, the Exhibition Commissioners who initiated the Congress are going to throw upon the committees the expense of the printing. So far as the papers read, and the discussions which have grown out of them, are to be taken as evidences, the success of the Congress is undoubted, that is to say, up to the present time, for there are yet four weeks of the session to run. But if the success is to be measured by the general interest shown, one must confess that there is but small room for exultation. It would seem as if, for the most part, nothing will attract a large audience which is not announced in acres of placard on the walls and hoardings, or which has not something in it in the nature of the sensational or the eccentric. It is certainly thus with preaching, with acting, and with lecturing; or a thing must be made fashionable by being taken up by certain leaders of "society." Certainly no public thing succeeds on its merits. If it be said that hygiene is not an appetising subject, it shall be admitted that perhaps it is not; but then why did 180 persons take the trouble to desire to be put on the list? And it is significant that the Health Society has stood aloof from this sitting of the Health Department so that it has come to be asked what are the objects the Health Society have in view? And if reply be made to this query, it can only be that the Health Society has certain personal vanities to gratify, which a union with the Health Department would not have fed. For all this disappointment, it is hoped that some lasting good will grow out of the past week's deliberations, for all that it is said the Government propose to abolish the Central Board of Health. But then they are abolishing so much just now that one has ceased to be surprised at anything they elect to destroy. And in this work of breaking-up they are displaying a measure of recklessness which, in its way, has a tincture of sublimity in it, on account of the complete disregard of consequences it exhibits. Thus, they have just dismissed Dr. Faulkner, the resident surgeon of the Pentridge Prison. Looking at this dismissal, from a purely economic point of view, it may perhaps have its advantages. For, admitting that it is a good thing to abolish crime, it is also a good thing to abolish criminals, and if criminals are refused medical treatment they may perhaps die off something faster than they would if ministered to. If this really be their reason, then we must suppose that they consider it as much a duty to get rid of lunacy and lunatics, for they have dismissed one of the three medical men at the Kew Asylum. As it was only quite recently shown that the number of medical officers at this institution was considerably below the requirements, it is not quite easy to be convinced that there is not something other than economy in sending away Dr. Skinner. It is expected that Dr. Fishbourne, who is second in medical command at Kew, will also resign from sheer inability to do the work, and this resignation will give Mr. Berry an opportunity of putting in one of his own friends, which is just the opportunity he desires. For, although he solemnly disavows any intention of filling up the places vacated, and vows by everything sacred that his sole object is to save the State's money, his acts a good deal belie his words, as witness the previously mentioned appointment of Mr. Farrell, the Parliament Librarian, and as witness the more recent appointment of one of his sons to a clerkships in the Treasury, and the reinstatement of his other son, with increase of salary; this latter act being a reversal of the decision of the late Government, who, in accordance with the opinion of the Audit Commissioners, put back Mr. Benjamin Berry to the stage of clerkship from which he had been improperly advanced. These acts cannot help destroying confidence in Mr. Berry, even in the minds of his own friends, however much they may desire to give him credit for sincerity of purpose.

The mode adopted in filling up the appointment of Government Printer is also occasioning a good deal of adverse comment. The rule of the promotion of the next best man is departed from, and advertisements have been issued inviting applications from candidates. But it is said by those who know, as is so often the case where advertisements of this kind are issued, that the office has already been virtually filled, and that Mr. G. C. Levey is the person fixed upon to succeed Mr. Ferres. The statement is only a rumour, it is true, but it comes from so reliable a source that it has all the quality of a truth. But the Government are, nevertheless, in good spirits, for the Treasury bonds have been taken up with such avidity and at such a premium that it is insisted there is the most unbounded confidence in the Ministry, and that, therefore, all their acts must be acceptable. And then their Railway Bill has been read a first time with such prospect of success that they insist even their bitter foes are going to be their friends. On the other hand, their Judicature Bill is furiously opposed, the opposition coming all from their own side of the House, the principal opponent being their former colleague Sir Bryan O'Loghlen. But of him it is not unlikely there will soon be an opportunity of getting rid, in a manner most agreeable to himself, unless the impending vacancy on the Bench should be filled up by the Attorney-General, which would make a considerable stir; but remembering how much of stir has already been made in the way of departures from the straight lines of political ethics, would probably do them but little damage.

That prosperity is coming back to us is alleged to be evident in the increased sum, as compared with last year's receipts, of Hospital Sunday collections. And the common hopefulness is further assumed by the preparations for the races, and especially for the Cup Day. Never, it is asserted, will there have been such a display on the lawn as there is to be this year. Drapers and dressmakers are consequently in spirits. And it is undoubted that festivities are to be heard of on all hands. Our numerous distinguished visitors will go away from Melbourne with very spacious conceptions of our hospitality. One newspaper has taken to the American plan of recording private entertainments, and it is said that these records are not only acceptable to those to whom they relate, but that some who happen to have been left unmentioned have complained of the neglect. This craving for publicity at the sacrifice of privacy is not a good indication of the social tone, but it seems to be no use fighting with the habit.

The Commissioners have resolved, by a large majority, not to open the Exhibition at night, but the minority are determined not to acquiesce without a struggle for it, so it is intended to endeavour to rescind the resolution at the meeting next Thursday. In curious contradiction to this declared interest in the working man, for whose benefit the lighting up at night is regarded as necessary, is the increased charge of admission on Saturday, which is the working man's holiday. These inconsistences go beyond the power of conjecture to explain them. Altogether, it would seem as if the Exhibition memories were going to be other than pleasant, for every day something disagreeable crops up. The latest of these has reference to confectionery, permission having been given to a French firm to manufacture sweetmeats, and refused to local manufacturers. Hence, out of this business of sweetness there is much bitterness flowing.

In like manner angry passions have arisen out of flowers and trees and music. That is to say, permission having been given for the Austrian Band to play at the Botanical Gardens, it has been complained that the Minister of Lands had no right to allow any such privilege, and it has been promised that no such permission is ever to be given again. Here, now, we see the advantage of absolutism, for the Archbishop having allowed the Austrian Band to play at St. Patrick's Cathedral, it has played there without any comment other than conversational comment, although it was a direct using of a sacred building, and on a Sunday too, for secular uses. If secular people had had such a concert on a Sunday at the Town-hall—for it was to all intents and purposes a concert—the police would have interfered as they did in Sydney when Mr. Proctor wanted to lecture on Sunday.

We are not only improving commercially, according to our political authorities, but morally also. Consequently, the police are being reduced in numbers, some districts being left without any such protection. This is very encouraging to the dangerous classes, and will greatly extend the number of those who are grateful to the present Government. The complaint has been that we are not enough police protected, and that those who are robbed and half-killed are unreasonable in their demands for more constables, seeing that crime must always be a part of our social institutions, or else, why do we build gaols and make Judges? Probably this is the feeling of Mr. Edward Kelly, whose trial is fixed for to-day, but who will very likely be accommodated with a further postponement, being, as he is, so very popular a character, and enjoying, as he does, such a large measure of public sympathy. But concerning public morality, if we are to judge by one example—and the ex uno disce omnes is, as we all know, a very old truth—we are growing exceedingly moral, for a man has actually gone to the Commissioner of Customs and paid duty on six gold watches, which six months ago he smuggled. This is, so far as I know, the first example of conscience money having been tendered; and it seems quite unjust to this exceedingly moral person that his name should have been withheld. However, proverbs are in favour of the probability of so commendable an act being followed by others of a like kind; and if every smuggler in Victoria should return all the money of which he has cheated the State, the deficit in the revenue will be at once met, and there will be a good deal over. Oddly enough, since the reductions in the Custom-house staff, the seizures of jewellery have been of every day occurrence, so that one may with but little difficulty estimate the number of those who ought to have been conscience-smitten.

There has been no public mention of a ferment now going on in the Lying-in Hospital. It seems that one of the honorary staff, as alleged, insisted upon performing an operation upon a patient against her will, and that she died either during or shortly after the operation. I learn that the whole of the rest of the staff, both honorary and paid, have condemned their colleague in the strongest manner, and that the committee have condemned him also. There is talk of an exhumation and an inquest; but as nothing ever comes of such late investigations, it is probable that the matter will go no further than the committee. The poor woman, it is said, would have certainly died from the disease under which she was labouring, and there is no reason to suppose that the surgeon had any motive other than to prolong her life a little. And, if he unfortunately shortened it, it is to be supposed it was all done according to the most approved scientific methods. These disasters will happen.

MR. BERRY'S RECENT FAMILY APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Graham Berry, the Premier of Victoria, recently reinstated one of his sons to the position of fourth-class clerk in the Civil Service of Victoria, from which he had been removed by the former Premier, Mr. Service, as the young gentleman had not passed the necessary examination prescribed by the Civil Service Act of the sister colony. Mr. Berry has also appointed a younger son of his to a Government situation at a salary of £60 per annum; and these appointments have been made at a time when the wholesale dismissal of Civil servants is taking place in Victoria on the ground of retrenchment. So apparently flagrant an abuse of patronage is too much even for the Ministerial journal and many of the friends of the present Administration.

The Age, in commenting on the transaction, observes:—"We fear that there is not a Liberal in the country or in the House who will not hear with pain and astonishment that Mr. Berry should have taken the inconceivably foolish step of promoting one of his sons and appointing another in the department under his charge. Public men will occasionally commit acts that have the character of absolute infatuation; and when they do it becomes necessary to take care that the party with which they are associated should not be compromised by them. We can think of no argument whatsoever by which Mr. Berry can expect to justify his conduct, even in the eyes of his friends, much less of his enemies. His enemies will, of course, accuse him of abusing his position for the purpose of furthering the interests of his family, and his friends will find it impossible to acquit him of an execrable breach of taste. He will probably himself reply that in reinstating his son in the position from which his predecessor dismissed him he is only following out the policy which the Government determined on from the beginning, and that there is no reason why a different treatment should be meted out to the Berrys because they happen to bear his name. But there is a reason, and it is a reason which every man who is not insensible to the fitness of things, and who knows how much the instinctive sense of fitness enters into the judgment which the public form of public men, will see at a glance. The feeling is one that has its roots in the higher and more refined side of human nature, and no public man can recklessly shock it without imposing a severe strain upon the indulgence of his admirers. At the present juncture there are special reasons why Mr. Berry should rather have gone out of his way to blunt the edge of criticism on this score. His Government is engaged in a work which, however necessary and politic, is admittedly the most painful that any Government could undertake. In carrying out the scheme of retrenchment to which it was committed at the general elections, numbers of Civil servants of various grades have been deprived of employment. If under such circumstances it is questionable wisdom to reinstate others who have already been dispensed with, it is especially unwise to promote those who bear such close relations to the head of the Government himself; for it will be hard for him to make reductions in his department after he has selected his own children for advancement."

The Argus, as a matter of course, denounces the appointments in stronger terms. That journal remarks:—"The reappointment of Mr. Farrell has been immediately followed by the reinstatement of Mr. Benjamin Berry. The Chief Secretary would thus appear to be becoming cynically indifferent to public opinion. The Farrell appointment was one of the jobs which were specifically referred to in the radical Press as a portion of the 'damnatory materials for a bill of indictment' left behind by the first Berry Government. The Benjamin Berry scandal was another item in a list which it was said would account for the defeat and the disgrace of any Ministry. It may fairly be assumed that if the Chief Secretary had returned to office 'clothed and in his right mind,' anxious to serve the country, and to avoid the errors and excesses of the past, he would have had nothing further to do with proceedings which both sides have condemned. But, indifferent himself to the reprobation of his fellows, Mr. Berry persists in further blackening the character of the party which has entrusted him with the lead. He will no doubt call upon his majority to cover the transactions with their votes, and some members will be forced to express an approval of proceedings which, when free from political ties, they hasten to condemn. But we should hope not all. . . . The time selected for the jobs is a proof of callousness in itself. Severe reductions are taking place. Old and faithful servants of the public are being turned out of office, and in many instances they have to face starvation, for they do not know how to adopt a new trade. Promotions and appointments of any kind are out of place; and for promotions and appointments to be made in the family of the man who is responsible for the misery is singularly heartless and indecent."

☞ UNEQUALLED MOUNTAIN VIEWS.

 The undersigned will sell by auction, ON THE GROUND, close to FAULCONBRIDGE RAILWAY STATION, after luncheon, TUESDAY, 9th NOVEMBER, in both LARGE and SMALL BLOCKS,

THE VERY CHOICEST SITES and BEST POSITIONS in those UNRIVALLED and PRINCELY PROPERTIES known as belonging to Hon. Sir HENRY PARKES, K.C.M.G. situate AT FAULCONBRIDGE, and MOUNT ALBERT, between SPRINGWOOD and NUMANTIA RAILWAY STATIONS, on the Western Railway line, distant 49 miles only from Sydney, with an elevation of nearly 2000 feet above the level of the sea.

☞ The FAULCONBRIDGE PROPERTY is highly improved by the erection of many large and comfortable MOUNTAIN HOMES, replete with every convenience and surrounded by improved gardens, orchards, &c., &c. All the comforts of modern life are here obtainable—the daily post, the daily call of the tradesman, the butcher, baker, grocer, &c.; and, in addition, the RAILWAY STATION is erected on the ESTATE.

☞ The MOUNT ALBERT property adjoins the above, and whilst having a slightly greater elevation, commands those lovely and enchanting views obtainable ONLY on the BLUE MOUNTAINS.

 These sites are very grand, and the views very extensive, commanding the LIGHTHOUSE at SOUTH HEAD, and the pretty country of CAMDEN and DOUGLAS PARK, as well as of the RANGE of MOUNTAINS on every side. They are all PICKED POSITIONS, and very convenient to the RAILWAY STATION.

TWO COMMODIOUS FAMILY RESIDENCES, TWO STORIES, BRICK-BUILT, QUITE NEW,

ROSEHILL-STREET, midway between the RAILWAY STATION and JUNCTION, GRANVILLE.

MONDAY, 1st NOVEMBER, at 11 o'clock, at the Premises.

JOHN TAYLOR has been instructed to sell by public auction, at the above Premises, on MONDAY, 1st November, at 11 o'clock,

Those two new BRICK-BUILT TWO-STORY HOUSES, attached, with out-buildings and land, situate on the south side of Rosehill-street, the nearest buildings to Church-street.

The HOUSES are well and faithfully built. Balconies, verandahs, and the fronts are a very handsome and unique style of architectural design. The workmanship and finish of the buildings are of a most excellent order, and the fittings replete in every particular.

EACH HOUSE contains 7 rooms, kitchen, pantry, scullery, and bathroom—the arrangement of the whole remarkably convenient.

THERE ARE OUT-OFFICES, coal sheds, &c., with extensive underground brick and cemented tanks, fitted with pumps, and the water is laid on to the kitchen, scullery, &c.

THE YARDS and garden grounds at the rear of buildings are divided by close paling fences, and the premises thoroughly drained.

THE GROUND frontage is 50 feet by a depth of 150 feet, and a dwarf wall with iron railings in front of buildings.

THE SITUATION is in a retired position and high ground, commanding picturesque views of the surrounding districts; convenient walking distance from either the Parramatta Railway station or Junction at Granville.

TERMS VERY LIBERAL. TITLE, UNQUESTIONABLE.

N.B.—The above will positively be sold in one lot, and capitalists or others in quest of a first-class investment in the town of Parramatta are respectfully invited by the auctioneer to inspect the property.

STUBBS and CO. will sell by auction, at the Imperial Hotel, on SATURDAY, 6th November, at 12 noon,

That small but select portion, divided into a few building plots, upon which the primeval FOREST TREES have been, with judicious taste, carefully preserved.

It is the most central spot in this MOUNTAIN VILLAGE, now becoming more generally known to tourists; and, since the accession of a NEW HOST to the chief hotel, stands pre-eminent as a resort even to distinguished travellers.

An advertisement precludes the possibility of doing justice to this FAVOURED ELEVATION, which is known to many "ga-pers" of these low lands through the warm season, who attest the benefits received from the grand change experienced by a brief sojourn on this "ALPINE PEAK,"
